Kennedy, Advisers Map Soviet Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy talked for two hours Saturday with a panel of key advisers on U.S.-Soviet policy. He got a first-hand report from Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson on Thompson's recent confidential conference with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Saturday's meeting was authoritatively described as exploratory in nature. Informants said any necessary decisions on the future development of U.S. policy toward the Soviet Union will not be made until further conferences are held.

It is understood that Ambassador Thompson will appear before the Senate Foreign Relations committee Monday to discuss present developments in U.S.-Soviet relations.

It is now expected that Kennedy and Khrushchev probably will meet for an informal get-acquainted session in a little more than two months.

The President's purpose for such a get-together would be two-fold:

1. To make an initial exploration at the summit level — but not in a summit conference — of Khrushchev's purposes in the present phase of his policy toward the United States; to find out whether there are possible East-West agreements especially in the field of disarmament.

2. To impress upon Khrushchev in the most emphatic manner that the U.S. government is deeply concerned over the persistent failure of peace efforts in the Congo and Laos. The United States regards Communist support for rebel elements in both places as a major cause of trouble.

Thompson was one of four Soviet specialists in the White House Cabinet room with Kennedy. The other three were all former envoys to Moscow—Charles E. Bohlen, chief adviser to Secretary of State Dean Rusk on Soviet affairs; George F. Kennan, author of the "containment" policy in the immediate postwar period of the 1940s, who has been out of government for eight years; and W. Averell Harriman, former governor of New York who was a World War II ambassador in Moscow.

Sitting in with Kennedy and the panel of ambassadors - advisors were Rusk and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Johnson characterized the two-hour session as an "informal talk" but declined any specific information about it. There was no statement from the White House.

From other sources, however, it was learned that this was only the first of a series of conferences

U.N. Denies Soviet Bid For Talks On Fate Of Lumumba

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union asked the U. N. Security council to meet privately Saturday and talk about the fate of deposed Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba.

The request was rejected by a majority of the 11-member council on the grounds Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold had not yet produced a report on what happened to Lumumba.

The Soviet delegation then sent the council members a statement in which it said the council should fulfill its duty "to liquidate all attempts of colonialists to impose their domination on the Congo" and to secure peace, territorial integrity and independence for the new African republic.

A U. N. spokesman announced, meanwhile, that the chief of staff of the U. N. force in the Congo, Brig. Gen. Iyassu Mengasha of Ethiopia, would fly from Leopoldville to Elisabethville Saturday to investigate the reports of Lumumba's disappearance.

Katanga government officials in Elisabethville announced Friday that Lumumba and two companions had escaped from detention in an isolated make-shift farm house jail.

In a letter to Hammarskjold Friday, 10 pro-Lumumba U. N. delegations asked the secretary-general to investigate "persistent rumors the last few days of Mr. Lumumba having been killed." They expressed fear the escape story was issued as a cover-up for a death announcement.

In a similar letter Friday night, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin requested Hammarskjold to look into reports "concerning the murder" of Lumumba.

Following this, Zorin telephoned the council president for February, Sir Patrick Dean of Britain, and asked him to call a private meeting on the case for 3 p.m.

Dean began polling the members. Within four hours U. N. spokesmen said the meeting "will not be taking place."

The council had already scheduled further debate on the Congo crisis for 11 a.m. Monday.

U. S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson continued talks with other delegates in search of agreement on a new plan to pacify warring factions in the Congo.

He may address the council next week, but he is not expected to speak Monday.

Believe Crash Program Needed For Corn, Grain

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., of the Senate Agriculture Committee reported Saturday that he and Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman agree that corn, wheat and feed grains are the crops which will need legislative attention this year.

On the other hand, he said, his discussions with Freeman show that no legislation may be required this year for cotton, rice, peanuts and tobacco.

Ellender discussed his conferences with Freeman in a talk for broadcast in Louisiana.

"As a result of our discussions I have the impression that the secretary...feels that a crash program for corn and feed grains might be desirable because of the continued build-up of these commodities," Ellender said.

Abraham Lincoln Goes To Washington

By Philip Van Doren Stern

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Just 100 years ago on February 11, 1861, Abraham Lincoln left his home town, Springfield, Ill., to travel to Washington as president-elect. A cold rain was falling early that morning when he went to the Great Western Railroad Station. He mounted the platform at the rear of the train and said to the crowd that had come to bid him farewell: "My friends: no one, not in my situation, can appreciate my feeling of sadness at this parting. To this place, and the kindness of these people, I owe everything. Here I have lived a quarter of a century and have passed from a young to an old man. Here my children have been born, and one is buried. I now leave, not knowing when or whether I may return. . . . Trusting in Him who can go with me, and remain with you, and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well. To His care commending you, as I hope in your prayers you will commend me, I bid you an affectionate farewell."

The train then pulled out of the station. Lincoln was never to see Springfield again.

IRMA President Blasts Proposed Sales Tax Hike

CHICAGO (AP)—The president of the Illinois Retail Merchants Association said Saturday that an increase in the state sales tax would be "the greatest sin ever perpetrated against the majority of Illinois citizens."

Joseph T. Meek, IRMA president, said the sales tax is really the "poor man's tax."

Speaking at a meeting of the Illinois Association of Tobacco Distributors, Meek urged the distributors to present the cause of the consumer in fighting the use of merchandise taxes as the solution for Illinois' financial crisis.

Gov. Otto Kerner, seeking a solution for the state's current financial woes, has urged a broadening of the state sales tax base but has not proposed an outright increase. The present sales tax is 3½ per cent, with the state receiving 3 per cent and municipalities ½ per cent.

Asserting that the lowest income groups pay the biggest share of sales taxes, Meek offered figures showing the family man with a gross income of $2,500 spends 70.8 per cent of it on taxable purchases.

The figures showed the $5,000 a year man spends 63.4 per cent for taxable items, the $7,500 a year earner 59 per cent and the man with earnings of $10,000 about 54 per cent. Those in the $20,000 a year bracket were shown to spend only 36.7 per cent for items subject to sales taxes.

"Any tax increase makes a bad situation worse for the low income family," Meek said.

Lincoln Was On Train En Route To Capital For Inauguration

By TOM HENSHAW
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The special train, a closed little world of its people and thoughts, labored across the flat Indiana landscape, its high, flat-topped stack trailing smoke that whisped away in its wake.

The little towns of mid-America passed by with their little red stations where people waved.

The lanky man sat jackknifed in a plush chair, a month or so of new-grown beard shadowing his homely face. He scribbled notes, perhaps, or exchanged a dry joke with his companions, or lost himself in thought.

In the baggage car of the train trunks and chests of personal belongings, packed by the man himself, were stacked high, each bearing the destination label, written by the man himself: "A. Lincoln, the White House, Washington, D.C."

This was Abraham Lincoln on his 52nd birthday, Feb. 12, 1861, a scant three weeks from becoming president of a disintegrating nation on the threshold of a bloody civil war.

A day's travel behind him lay his beloved Springfield where, on the previous morning, he had stood in the cold, drizzling rain and bade a solemn, prayerful

Clamp Lid On News About U.S. Military Space Vehicles

WASHINGTON (AP) — From now on the public — and the Russians — will hear less about the performance of experimental U.S. military space vehicles.

The tight secrecy on satellites and tracking data imposed within the last week is viewed as a forerunner of the security which must cloak the military's space program when it becomes an operating reality.

As explained Saturday at the Pentagon, this does not mean a change in the plan to have the National Aeronautics and Space Administration distribute whatever information is made public on satellites.

Nor does the explanation deny there was administrative confusion and a resulting blackout on information about U.S. tracking of the 7½-ton Soviet Sputnik launched a week ago.

At one point, the confusion left a NASA spokesman in the position of receiving a "no comment" when he asked the Pentagon fo information about the Soviet satellite.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, said the coordination between NASA and the Pentagon on satellite announcements now is back on the track.

But from here on fewer details will be given out on such military space vehicles as the Samos satellite, which was put into orbit on Jan. 31.

As a matter of fact, the Defense Department Saturday would say only that the Samos still is in orbit. It refused to give any other information.

Samos is a very early design of a vehicle eventually intended to provide the United States with a fleet of polar-orbiting, camera-carrying satellites to keep constant watch on every point on the earth — a spy-in-the-sky system.

At some point in the future, the satellites and their equipment will gain a degree of perfection. They will begin to send back the intelligence data for which they were designed.

But the public and the Russians never will be told the precise time when Samos ceases to be experimental and becomes a working robot spy system.

This will be concealed behind the secrecy already imposed on the experimental work—and continued on into the operating phases.

Similarly, it should be expected there will be less precise information on sightings and trackings of some Soviet space vehicles in the future.

The reasoning is that disclosure of this data would tip off the effectiveness or shortcomings of U. S. space tracking systems.

Illinois U. Trustees' Choice For Chicago Campus Site Meets Growing Opposition

CHICAGO (AP) — The University of Illinois trustees' choice for a Chicago campus site met growing opposition Saturday—from two churches, a welfare group and from proponents of a former site choice.

But for the first time in the six-year wrangle over where to set up a permanent four-year undergraduate campus in Chicago, opponents found themselves opposing the city as well as the university.

The recommendation Friday by seven members of the nine-member board that the trustees select a near West Side site had the hearty endorsement of Mayor Richard J. Daley — an opponent of three previous choices. Formal approval of the selection Wednesday appeared virtually certain.

Less certain, however, was the target date given by university president, Dr. David Dodds Henry, for the start of construction of the new $150 million campus.

Vigorous opposition to the university's moving into the entire 103-acre tract was raised by trustees of Hull House — the renowned settlement house founded in the neighborhood more than 70 years ago by the late Jane Addams. The university's plans would mean tearing down the settlement.

House Director Russell W. Ballard said every effort possible would be made to save the famed social welfare center.

The president of the Hull House trustees, James C. Downs Jr., resigned following the site choice Friday. He has been a planning consultant to Daley and had urged selection of the West Side tract—including the Hull property—for the university.

Downs said it was a matter of regret for him to choose between the university's position and that of Hull House. But, he added:

"It is my firm conviction that a proper location for the university definitely warrants its being given a priority in both the short and long-term welfare of the people of Chicago.

"Once again it is a matter of the many against a few in a situation where the aims of the many are desirable for the public good."

The Rev. Italo Scalo, pastor of Holy Guardian Angel Roman Catholic Church, said the city broke a promise by agreeing to the slum clearance area for the university. He said that when the church was forced to relocate in 1959 to make room for the South Expressway, "the city promised us that the area would be cleared for new housing. Now look what has happened to us."

A 2-year-old, $600,000 school, convent and temporary church of the parish are included in the site the university wants.

Father Scalo said the question of whether he will fight to block the campus site is up to the Catholic chancery. Holy Guardian

NAVY SEEKS SUB SEEN IN ATLANTIC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy headquarters here said Saturday that units of the antisubmarine force at Key West, Fla., have put to sea to investigate a reported submarine sighting in the Atlantic.

The Navy declined to elaborate, except to say, "It is standard procedure to investigate such reports."

This appeared to be the second report in about a week on a possible unidentified submarine sighting. The Navy made the same statement on that other occasion.

Katanga Communique Denies Escape Was 'Manufactured'

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP)—The Katanga government hinted Saturday that U.N. soldiers were involved in the disappearance of Patrice Lumumba and announced new clues in the hunt for the Congo's deposed premier.

Hoping to allay widespread suspicion that the story of Lumumba's escape from Katanga jailers was a cover-up for a plot to assassinate the Congo's foremost political agitator, the government issued a communique denying the escape was "manufactured."

However, the suspicions reached to U.N. headquarters in New York. Eleven pro-Lumumba delegations demanded an inquiry into Lumumba's "murder" and one of them, the Soviet Union, requested a Saturday secret Security Council meeting to discuss Lumumba's fate. The Soviet move failed and the matter will come up at a council meeting Monday.

No evidence has been produced here to substantiate the rumors of Lumumba's death. But the only evidence to the contrary has come from a steady stream of communiques on the hunt for him and two associates, Senate Vice President Joseph Okito and former Youth Minister Maurice Mpolo. All three were brought to Katanga last month for safekeeping.

The government of this secessionist province announced the discovery of a rifle and submachine gun under a bush near the spot where Lumumba's supposed getaway car was abandoned. After that the hunt came to a dead end as far as official statements were concerned.

But a Katanga spokesman and the local radio said a government commission of inquiry found that "a number of men with light brown skins" suddenly appeared at Lumumba's farmhouse prison

Kennedy's Next News Conference To Be Televised

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will hold his next news conference Wednesday evening from 7 to 7:30. It will be carried on live television by two of the three major networks.

The Columbia Broadcasting System said it did not plan to carry it live, explaining the time period is "when our major daily news program, 'Douglas Edwards With the News,' is being carried on most of the network. Our obligation, we believe, is to present this information program unless there is an overriding reason to eliminate it."

The National Broadcasting Co. and the American Broadcasting Co. will carry the conference on live television and also on the radio networks. CBS said it would carry some of the conference on the Edwards' news program and was holding the 11:15 p.m. time for possible rebroadcast. CBS radio will carry it at 6:15 p.m.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said the arrangements would be exactly the same as for Kennedy's first news conference, except that it would be limited to 30 minutes.

He said all future news conferences will be limited to half an hour because the President feels that half an hour is a proper length.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower requested a half-hour limit on his news conferences but Kennedy's announced policy was to let the question-and-answer sessions run until the, "Thank you, Mr. President" of the senior wire service correspondent, Marvin L. Arrowsmith of The Associated Press. Each has run a few minutes beyond the half-hour.

Goldberg Pledges Aid To Workers In Detroit Area

DETROIT (AP) — Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg answered hard-luck stories from unemployed workers in depressed Michigan Saturday with a pledge the Kennedy administration is "going to try to help."

In the Detroit automotive center, Goldberg ran into conditions worse than any encountered to date in his economic inspection tour for President Kennedy.

Typical of the kind of personal talks Goldberg is having on his cross-country tour was the encounter he had on a downtown Detroit street with Ray Shaffer, 56, General Motors maintenance man out of work for a year.

"I hope things improve. I need a job," Shaffer said.

"That's the big thing—a job—" Goldberg agreed. "And we are going to try to help you."

Shaffer, whose unemployment benefits ran out last August, said his family of five including three children aged two to nine, live off a $44 welfare payment every other week. Goldberg said that in addition to the $1.2-billion-idle-aid plan Kennedy already has proposed to Congress,the President will recommend in April permanent unemployment compensation program improvements.

He said the level of benefits have fallen behind the times and must be upgraded.

Goldberg called the nation's present economic condition "critical", a full-fledged recession which he said could slide into a depression and he urged nationwide support for Kennedy's recovery plan.

In Detroit, he met a business, labor, civic group that included top auto industry leaders and Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers.

Goldberg took occasion to urge both the auto industry and union to try to settle their contract negotiations amicably this summer. Reuther expressed hope both sides could work together responsibly in achieving a new agreement.

In that connection Goldberg said that he as secretary of labor does not propose to interfere in the forthcoming auto contract talks. He said both sides had enough experience to reach a reasonable agreement.

Reuther said that because of growing productivity and the expanding population the nation will have to provide an average 30,000 jobs a week for the next 10 years in order to keep the work force employed.

"But instead of creating these new jobs, we have a backlog of over five million unemployed men" Reuther said.

Louis G. Seaton, vice president for personnel at General Motors, told the meeting that so far as employment opportunities are concerned the situation at GM is the best in the history of the company.He said that GM's Michigan employment grew from 113,000 in to 205,000 in 1960 with payrolls increasing in the same period up from $248 million to $1.4 billion annually.

Deadly Torrents Of Rain Subside In West Oregon

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Flooding streams dropped sharply Saturday as torrents of rain dwindled to showers in western Oregon. As the three-day storm faded, it already had caused two deaths, unleashed landslides onto a train and motel, and cut rail lines and roads.

But for luck, the death toll could have been disastrous. One landslide derailed part of a train carrying 118 passengers. No one was killed. Another massive cavein of rock and earth buried three persons in a motel. All were rescued.

Weather Bureau forecasters said most streams in western Oregon were dropping sharply, and they said there was no danger of new floods, as only scattered showers were expected in the next few days.

At the height of the storm, nearly four inches of rain in a single day were dumped on coastal points. Inland, Eugene had 6½ inches of rain in just over two days.

Streams that swept out of their banks just south of Portland forced about 100 families from their homes. Most were able to move back Saturday. Farther south, flood waters dropped after running high in the streets of Drain, Turner and Sutherlin.

The two rail lines from Portland to the east were cut by landslides.

At Troutdale, near Portland, rocks and earth smashed into a motel, burying for a short time Mrs. Donald Dory, 42, and her two children, Charlotte, 3, and Kevin, 1. Rescue workers dug them out quickly and they suffered only bruises.

Crews put in a temporary line for the Union Pacific Saturday, and nine trains that had been delayed resumed their journeys. On the opposite side of the Columbia River, rain washed out a section of Spokane, Portland and Seattle trackage, the other main line east. Crews were fixing that, too.

Nab Man Charged With Molesting Peoria Farm Girl

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Peoria County authorities Saturday seized a hefty resident of suburban Edwards in their search for the abductor and attacker of a teen-aged farm girl Thursday.

Warrants charging forcible rape, kidnaping and assault and battery were sworn out for Lawrence Lee Southwood, 23, a 6-foot-7, 210-pound husband and father.

Authorities said Doris Ann Smith, 17, the victim, and her parents identified Southwood as the man who invaded their home at gunpoint, locked the parents in a closet and drove off with the girl.

The girl was held captive for more than an hour before she was released from the car about 10 miles from her home.

Sheriff Ray Trunk of Peoria County said the arrest was made on an anonymous tip—apparently the result of publication in the local press of a composite sketch of the abductor.

Trunk said Southwood was seized in a car in the suburb. Later, the sheriff said, deputies found the alleged abduction car and shotgun at Southwood's home. Southwood has one child.

LONG YEAR TOWN TRIES TO IMPROVE MAIL SERVICE

LONG YEAR TOWN, Spitsberg (AP) —The Norwegian governor of this bleak arctic archipelago has asked the Soviet Union to help carry mail between here and Norway. Mail flights were suspended two years ago. The mail would be carried by Soviet vessels to the Soviet Union and then forwarded to the Norwegian post office. The Soviets have a coal mining concession and a small settlement on the islands.

Cub Scout Work In Store Windows At Arenzville

ARENZVILLE — The January Pack meeting of Cub Scout Pack 118, Arenzville, was held at the Legion and Community hall on Jan. 26. The meeting was opened with the presentation of the flag and pledge of allegiance, the group being led by Den I. A short review of the past year, and an account of a meeting with the sponsoring organization, the Arenzville Woman's Club, was given by the Cubmaster, Charles Ham.

Each Den then gave a short summary of things they had learned during the month about South America. They displayed flags of various countries and a few articles they had made that are associated with South America. Den I had colored streamers similar to what children there use in play. Den II put on a bullfight, complete with clown. Den III had sombreno hats they had made of cardboard.

At an informal court-of-honor, gold arrows under the Wolf badge were awarded to Gardon Ham and Billy Privia, both of Den II.

The Cub Scout Week window display was discussed, and it was decided to display various articles made by the boys during the past year in a window at McLain's Market. In keeping with Scout Week, the boys plan to attend church at St. Peter's Lutheran church on Feb. 12, meeting at the Town Hall at 10:15 a.m.

The next Pack meeting will be held Feb. 28 at the Legion Hall, a potluck supper to start at 6:30 p.m. The Boys Scouts of Troop 118 and their families will be guests.

SHILOH WSCS FEB. 16

The WSCS of Shiloh church will meet with Mrs. Elmer Holt on Thursday, Feb. 16 at 2:00 p.m.

His thirty day tour will include among other points of interest Chicago, Boston, New York City, Phoenix, Atlanta, Mobile, New Orleans, Las Vegas, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and Ashland. During his tour he seeks a broad picture of United States politics, economics, social structure, culture, and public opinion.

Mr. Arton, who was scheduled to arrive Saturday, February 11, will experience life in a typical rural community. Since his visit coincides with Lincoln's birthday, Ashland residents will make a special effort to show him New Salem and the Lincoln shrines in Springfield.

Faculty Tries Eliot Comedy, Cocktail Party: Success

By HAROLD KEHLER

This weekend, seven MacMurray College faculty members presented a dramatic reading of T. S. Eliot's verse comedy, The Cocktail Party, at the campus theater. Their reading was, for the most part, highly successful, despite the usual audience perplexity that normally accompanies this play. Indeed, Dr. Ray Holcombe, director-participan, and his cast are to be commended not so much because they succeeded with a difficult and tricky assignment, but because they succeeded with a relatively new and untdied medium.

The Cocktail Party is much more than a drawing-room comedy, even though it abounds with the bantering chit-chat one customarily associates with such comedies. Instead, the play is really a classic example of Eliot's "Old Possum" tactics, for the poet underscores its surface banter with the same religious symbols, both private and traditional, that thread their way back through the corpus of his work to the early "Profrock." What we have, then, in The Cocktil Party is a play that is a comedy only in the technical sense of the word.

The pay's main significance lies in the fact that it makes a serious statement about modern man's spiritual condition. Moreover, when one regards the main line of action—with it gin and water ritual, its madcap psychologist-shaman, Harcourt - Reilly, and its spiritual quest involving Edward, Lavinia, Peter, and Celia—as an ironical transaction of the Holy Communion into contemporary terms and customs, he begins to understand Eliat's intentions.

Unique Presentation

Dr. Holcombe's decision to bypass conventional acting procedure in favor of the reading method is a clever attempt to solve the knotty problem facing any would-be director of The Cocktail Party: how to get the hidden meaning across to an audience generally unfamiliar with Eliot's technique.

The reading method, which compels the viewer to respond with the full force of his imagination, is ideally suited to plays that are heavily freighted with symbolic meaning and, at the same time, that contain a great amount of rapid-fire dialogue.

Essentially, Dr. Holcombe appears to have solved his problem; a surprising number of his audience reacted as if they had had an inkling of Eliot's meaning, and many at least behaved as if they had "borne witness" to something beyond the literal level.

Characterization

On the whole, the seven readers turned in a creditable performance. Each sat before a lecternstand and recited ("read" is not the word) his respective lines. Mrs. Louise Meikle, as Julia Shuttlethwaite, was particularly effective. Her voice control was excellent, and she skillfully captured just the right balance between the downright levity and prophetic insight required for the role.

Dr. Holcombe was also very effective as Sir Henry Harcourt-Reilly, the inscrutable "guardian."

Miss Ellen Wilmarth, on the other hand, occasionally seemed to have a little difficulty with the emotional range required for her part as Celia Coplestone, the saint-type. Apart from this, she gave a fine performance.

James Meikle and James Conover, cast as Edward Chamberlayne and Peter Quilpo respectively, handled their parts very well.

Charles Alcorn, as the mysterious Alex, demonstrated a thorough understanding of the requirements of his role and Mrs. Louisa Strong was a very convincing Lavinnia.

TB skin tests were given in the county to all high school students during the past months by the county nurse, Mrs. Warren Cook and the local doctors. A thorough program was completed, thanks to the co-operation of each school's administrators and 100% received the test. Of the students, 1,070 students tested negative and 29 tested positive. Those who tested "positive" were given an X-ray at Oak Lawn Sanitorium to determine the activity of the infection in the lungs. Thirty-four school personnel under 30 years of age were also give the TB test and three were positive. This program was sponsored by the Green County Tuberculosis Association and financed by the Christmas Seal fund.

At the present time, the Christmas Seal fund amounts to $2,684.-68 this year and needs only $78.00 to reach a goal that will be needed to conduct the association's program for the coming year. All funds are budgeted and spent each year so there is no reserve fund to aid the program if the fund raising campaign is not complete. The work of the Association can only be as good as the finances and interest behind it. A last appeal is being made this week and it is hoped that those who forgot to contribute during the Christmas rush will do so now.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Executives from top to bottom of the corporate ladder can reappraise today the relation of man to company in the wake of what happened here to the electric equipment industry.

What happened was: The roof fell in.

Jail sentences were meted out to 31, with 24 put on five years probation and 7 others ordered to jail for 30 days starting Monday.

In countless other industries management men, big and little, are on notice they must be as above approach as Caesar's wife in avoiding involvement in price fixing or bid rigging. Many junior executives may wonder how far their superior will go in backing them up—may even question some practices or policies as dangerous to themselves.

The first individuals sentenced to jail looked unbelieving. Later one looked crushed or startled that they could be sentenced for doing their job as they had interpreted it.

Some openly showed resentment that they were being punished while "superiors weren't even indicted."

The relation of man to company in following practices deemed to aid the firms concerned varied widely among the corporations involved. Attorneys for companies and those for individuals made contrasting pleas in asking Judge J. Cullen Ganey of U. S. Dist. Court here for leniency.

Some company attorneys said their top men were unaware of the widespread price fixing and bid rigging in an industry with $2 billion a year sales. Some of their men showed active resentment of salary cuts and demotions since they were indicted last spring and insisted they were carrying out orders of their immediate superiors or instructions of their predecessors on the job.

Some of the individuals accepted the court punishment as they had accepted their company role—doing what seemed expected. They gave no indication in court of questioning the practice they held was needed to bring stability to a once highly competitive industry.

Others pleaded through their attorneys that they had first opposed the idea of price fixing, banned by antitrust laws, but found they had to go along as part of their jobs. To these the judge mostly turned a deaf ear, saying they used substantial salaries to balm their conscience. But usually he suspended jail sentences and put them on five year probation.

Many of the defendants were at or near retirement age. The fines will bear down hard. So will loss of status in company and community.

South Side Circle Has Program On A. Lincoln

The South Side Circle was entertained Feb. 10th at Hamilton's with Mrs. J. W. Hall and Mrs. E. S. Hutson co-hostesses. Mrs. Chester Bone of Prairie City, Ill., was a guest of her sister, Mrs. W. E. Hall.

The president, Mrs. J. E. Underbrink, opened the meeting with a poem, followed by the reading of the constitution and by-laws of the club. During the business session notes were read from Mrs. Hugh Green, Mrs. Arthur French, city and Mrs. Floreca Tomlin, Springfield, expressing appreciation for their honorary memberships in the club.

At this time the president appointed Mrs. J. W. Hall, Mrs. E. C. Caldwell and Mrs. Lena Kerns to serve as a nominating committee for naming a new slate of officers.

Also a program committee, Mrs. Mae Allen, Mrs. W. E. Hall, Mrs. H. E. Weaver and Mrs. Ethel Strawn, to serve during the year.

The program chairman, Mrs. E. A. Schoedsack, presented Miss Emma Hunter whose subject was Interesting Things in Lincoln's Life. Lincoln, the 16th president, was born and reared in virtual peasant conditions, she stated. Notwithstanding his humble home he became a great statesman and leader of his day. The Lincoln-Douglas debates over the existence of slavery, in the territories, helped win him popularity.

His speech, accepting the Republican nomination for the senate in 1858 contained the most noted single passage in any of his speeches, "a house divided against itself cannot stand."

Lincoln is remembered especially for his Gettysburg Address, which has become recognized as one of the classics of all time. Perhaps the Emancipation Proclamation, abolishing slavery wash is great deed, as it benefited the entire nation. His tragic death in 1865, at the close of the Civil War, brought an end to his career but the deep influence of his life lives on.

Following the program refreshments were served by the hostesses. The next meeting will be Feb. 24th with Mrs. George Douglas.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — An increased supply of butcher hogs late in the week turned prices downward and the market closed generally steady to 25 cents lower with the setback mainly on weights under 230 lbs.

Offerings for the whole week, however, were little changed but for the 12 major markets they were up about 5 per cent. Most of the run consisted of offerings in the 200-270 lb range with several shipments upward from 300 lbs.

Heavy snowfall along the Eastern Seaboard had a depressing effect on the market for slaughter steers. Buyers said the snowstorm hampered movement of beef to markets and reduced the requirements for animals for slaughter which usually are purchased here.

The cattle run at Chicago was off about 5 per cent from the previous week but the slackened demand from Eastern buyers and weaker prices for carcass beef caused a setback of 50 to 75 cents at the pens here.

The trend in the sheep market was irregular with good to prime slaughter lambs strong to 50 cents higher, good and below as much as $1 lower. Offerings for the week were down 20 per cent.

CHICAGO (AP)—(USDA)— A summary of hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

Hogs—compared Friday last week: barrows and gilts steady to 25 cents lower with the downturn limited mostly to weights under 238 lbs. Friday, 87 head mostly No. 1 and 2 200-215 lbs brought 18.85 and mixed No. 1 and 2 and mixed No. 1, 2 and 3 190-240 lb barrows and gilts bulked at 18.25-18.75. Mixed No. 1, 2 and 3 and mixed No. 2 and 3 240-260 lb weights 18.00-18.50 with mixed No. 2 and 3 and No. 3 260-310 lbs 17.75-18.25. Cattle—slaughter steers steady to 75 lower with prime steers mostly 50-75 lower, heifers steady to 25 lower, cows weak to mostly 50 lower, bulls steady to 25 higher, vealers mostly 1.00 higher. Many loads prime and mixed choice and prime 1050-1350 lbs 27.00-28.00 at the close when most choice 1000-1325 lbs brought 25.50-26.75, with few high choice and mixed choice and prime 960-1050 lbs 27.00-27.50. Loadlots choice and mixed choice and prime 1400-1800 lbs 23.50-27.25. Loadlots mixed good and choice 900-1380 lb steers 24.75-26.25; some good and mixed good and choice 1300-1600 lbs 22.50-25.00. New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — A tug of war between bulls and bears resulted this week in the stock market's first setback after six straight weeks of advance.

Although economic news was depressing, the rising 1961 market has ignored that news and this week's decline could not honestly be ascribed to the rising unemployment and continued cutbacks in the automobile industry.

It was merely a question of "more sellers than buyers," a seemingly ridiculous Wall Street truism that fits the case better than anything else.

The decline could logically be ascribed to the fact that the Dow Jones industrial average last week had come close to the top of its June rally peak. At that level, there were lots of people who wanted to unload, either to get back their money or to take a profit while this was possible.

At the same time, the astonishing rise of the market up to now has lured back the public to a broad participation in what some analysts have described as a new bull market. It was also reported that mutual funds and other institutional investors were buyers early in the week. In addition, there were reliable reports that considerable money previously invested in Europe was returning to Wall Street.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week fell 13.30 to 639.67.

Volume was 23,272,220 shares compared with 24,397,172 the week before.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 3.80 to 232.70 for its sharpest weekly loss since the week ended Oct. 22 when it dropped 4.90. This was the week before the AP average sank to its lowest point since 1958 then began a steady recovery which brought it to an historic high week before last.

The most active issue this week on the American Stock Exchange was Fox Head Brewing, up ¾ at 8¼ on 308,500 shares.

The uninterrupted climb of the corporate bond market since Jan. 1 pushed through a sixth week this week. But the U.S. government list faltered and dipped moderately after a three-week improvement.

Many industrials and utilities closed at or near two-year highs. Utilities carried the brunt of the latest corporate advance, gaining almost ¾ of a point on the Associated Press index. The component of the index for high grade investment issues is within ½ point of both 1960-61 and 1959 peaks.

Corporate traidng on the New York Stock Exchange dipped to $35,445,000 par value from $39,016,000 the previous week — the best since September 1959. The daily average fell to $7,089,000 par value from $7,803,200.

GRAINS CLOSE WEEK WITH BROAD LOSSES IN PROFIT TAKING

By GIL MAYO
AP Business News Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—Profit takers worked the grain futures pits almost without letup this week and all contracts closed with fairly broad setbacks while soybeans continued their climb but at a slower pace.

Generally the losses in grains were in the same range as last week's advances. However, corn still held about half the gains of the previous week.

As they have for the past several weeks, soybeans hit new highs for the season on all deliveries. In contrast with last week, though, when prices shifted the limit of 10 cents a bushel up one day and down the next, fluctuations this week were limited to five or six cents a bushel at the extremes either way.

At the end of the week, soybeans were 3½-6 cents a bushel higher, March $2.71¾-72½; wheat 2⅛-3⅞ lower, March $2.10½-¼; corn 1⅝-3 cents lower, March 1.15⅝ - ¾; oats 1¼ - 2¼ lower, March 65½-⅝; rye 1⅞-2⅛ lower, March $1.20⅝.

In the slow retreat of the grains, brokers said the trade may have been a little too bullish earlier on the possible action by President Kennedy and Congress toward completing legislation on the proposed new farm program. In the recommendations announced this week, dealers said the plan lacks any of the compulsion toward acreage reduction that had been expected.

In view of the offer to boost price supports substantially, some brokers expressed belief the voluntary aspect of acreage curtailment may not seem as attractive to operators of large farms as seemed likely at first.

Moreover, there was a growing doubt that any restrictive measure will make its way through Congress now in time to become effective on this year's plantings.

Despite a continued heavy volume of wheat exports, brokers noted a fairly general shift of speculative interest away from the old crop months to the new. One private survey showed more than 350 million bushels had been shipped overseas since July 1, up more than 106 million from the same period a year ago.

HINT U.N. TROOPS INVOLVED IN LUMUMBA ESCAPE

early Friday and ordered the guards to release Lumumba. This probably was an allusion to Moroccan U.N. troops, olive-skinned soldiers from North Africa.

"It is a strange coincidence," the radio said, "that Lumumba's escape coincided with the withdrawal of Moroccan troops from the Kolwezi area (about 60 miles from Lumumba's farmhouse prison)."

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga has long been at odds with the United Nations for failing to stamp out pro-Lumumba rebels in northern Katanga. His government has accused the Moroccans of collaborating with Katanga's enemies because of the Moroccan government's sympathies with Lumumba's rebels, who occupy the northeastern section of the Congo.

Katanga troops mounted an offensive against rebel Baluba tribesmen and army headquarters said they drove the rebels from Mukulakulu in central Katanga.

The next objective of the drive — described by an army spokesman as Katanga's "biggest ever" with 1,200 troops — was Luena, where Katanga police have been surrounded by rebels for several weeks.

The final objective of the drive is to regain all of northern Katanga from pro-Lumumba rebels, who would offer haven to Lumumba. Assuming he did escape and then abandoned his car, it would take several days for him to reach friendly territory in the northern areas.

Youth Posing As Doctor Kills Man At Florida Hotel

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A stocky 19-year-old youth posing as a doctor killed a Fontainebleau Hotel security officer, wounded another and shot it out with police on busy Collins Avenue Saturday before he was captured unhurt.

Lt. Al Biblo of Miami Beach police identified the man as John Cross, of Mount Glen Lake, Butler, N. J.

Police said Cross killed William Allsopp, 55, with six shots in the head and stomach, then fled through the lobby and took Lou Behrens, 60, hotel fire marshal, hostage at gunpoint from the hotel security office and fled with him in a stolen car.

Behrens was shot in the leg during a three-block ride while the two men struggled, police said.

Biblo said Cross, a 200-pound man, checked into the Fontainebleau five days ago under the name of Dr. Herbert Waters of Ridgewood, N. J., taking a $41-a-day room.

Police said Cross went into the office of the credit manager, A. J. Jeordain, to cash a check. Jeordain also wanted to ask Cross about his $300 to $400 bill.

Jeordain said he became suspicious and called Allsopp. Jeordain was called away to the cashier's window and left Allsopp with Cross.

Cross was taken to the police station and then to a hospital for a mental test.

Police in Ridgewood said they broadcast an alarm for a man using the aliases of Charles Cross, Dr. Herbert Waters, Dr. Herbert Walters and Juan Motas or Matos. They declined to disclose his real name.

Ridgewood police said the man is wanted on charges of breaking and entering, stealing a car and cashing worthless checks.

Propose Schools Abolish Formal Grade Levels

DETROIT (AP) — High schools should abolish their formal grade levels and let students race ahead or plod along according to their individual abilities, a high school principal urged Saturday.

B. Frank Brown, Melbourne, Fla., said public education has been in a rigid lockstep for 90 years, with students grouped by age instead of ability.

As they march together from the first grade through the 12th, he said, the bright students become bored and the poor students fall hopelessly and helplessly behind.

Brown is principal of the nation's only ungraded high school. Educators have been experimenting with ungraded primary schools for years, and it is catching on in many parts of the country.

In an address to the annual convention of the National Association of Secondary-School Principals, Brown said the traditional grade levels from one through 12 should be abandoned.

In their place, he said, there should be four areas of instruction, each covering a three-year span: primary, intermediate, junior high and senior high.

Within these areas, Brown said, "the talented have room to romp, and the slower student may pace himself into whatever excellence he can attain. Students who are able to excel may do so; others are encouraged to do their best."

The pace at which the student moves will depend on his intellectual development, Brown said.

If the ungraded high school is generally adopted, Brown said, interscholastic athletics may prove to be an early casualty. And, he added, varsity athletics may disappear anyway, "if we organize a new school system to meet our needs."

"I predict," he said, "that in the school year 1961-62, somewhere in these United States, a courageous school board will attract national attention by ringing down he curtain on varsity athletics. The effect of ungrading will be to hasen the demise."

Weaver Sworn In As Head Of FHA

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert C. Weaver of New York was sworn in Saturday as administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency. It is the highest post ever held by a Negro in the executive branch of government.

At the White House ceremony, President Kennedy said "I have the highest confidence in his ability, his energy, his integrity, his loyalty; and I am confident that he will serve as a force in this important field for a better life for all Americans."

Weaver was confirmed by the Senate Thursday. He was opposed by some Southern senators who questioned his views on racial integration and past associations with allegedly left-wing organizations.

REGINA, Sask. (AP) — Government entomology experts predict a 1961 grasshopper plague that will infest more than half of Saskatchewan's farming area.

St. Bonaventure Explodes In Final Minutes

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)— Second-ranked St. Bonaventure exploded in the last 10 minutes Saturday night for a 103-69 basketball victory over Boston College. Tom Stith and Freddie Crawford scored more than half of the winners' points.

The Bonnies, looking for a tougher time against Providence Monday night, moved listlessly along to a 44-31 halftime advantage and led 66-53 with 10 minutes to go.

Then Bob McCully counted from the outside and Orrie Jircle on a steal, Stith added a fast-break basket, four free throws and a tap-in and Crawford counted twice on steals.

The Bonnies' 18th win in 19 starts wrapped up, the regulars retired with the score 93-66 and the bench pushed it over 100 points for the fifth time this season.

Stith had 27 points, Crawford 26 and Whitey Martin 20. For Boston College, dropping its seventh game in 16 starts, Jerry Power had 19 points.

farewell to his friends of a lifetime.

In Washington futile old President James Buchanan, surrounded by intrigue and treason, wrung his hands and waited like a gasping relay runner hanging on until his successor could take the baton from his grasp.

For many the Union was no more. Seven states already had broken from its bonds. Four others were on the verge. Was it possible with words and deeds to reunite the nation — on terms of honor?

Already the first shots had been fired in anger, from a South Carolina battery on a ship, the Star of the West, carrying supplies to beleaguered Ft. Sumter. Could Civil war be averted — again on terms of honor?

The train rolled on.

Aboard, carefully shielded from outside eyes, were 20 copies of the inaugural address to be delivered March 4, its word containing the last hopes of preserving the Union.

At once, Lincoln hoped they would and knew they wouldn't.

There was the promise: "I have no purpose directly or indirectly to interfere with the institution of slavery in the states where it exists."

There was the firm purpose: "Physically speaking, we cannot separate. No state, upon its own mere action, can lawfully get out of the Union."

The train rolled on and, perhaps, as Lincoln sat deep in thought, he recalled the parting words of two days before to his old law partner and friend, William H. Herndon:

"I am sick of officeholding already, and I shudder when I think of the tasks that are still ahead."

Brown Wins 4th Straight Rushing Title In NFL

NEW YORK (AP)—Cleveland's Jimmy Brown became the first player in the National Football League's 41-year history to win the rushing title four years in a row.

Final NFL statistics issued Saturday show that Brown ran for 1,257 yards on 215 carries for a 5.8-yard average. He gained 100 yards or more in seven games, hitting a peak performance of 173 yards on 28 carries against St. Louis Nov. 13. He scored nine touchdowns, the longest on a 71-yard run.

The only other players who gained more than 1,000 yards afoot were Jim Taylor of Green Bay, with 1,101, and John David Crow of St. Louis with 1,071.

Cleveland, after two seasons of leading the rushing teams, dropped to third with a 1,930-yard total, trailing the St. Louis Cardinals and Green Bay Packers, two teams that ran more often than they passed. The Cards, rushing 484 times, gained 2,356 yards. The Packers totaled 2,150.

Green Bay, the western conference champion, made the top totals of 29 touchdowns and 135 first downs on the ground.

Green Bay's Paul Hornung scored the most touchdowns on the ground, 13, and John Henry Johnson of Pittsburgh made the longest run, 87 yards.

All Italy Alert For Total Eclipse Of Sun Feb. 15

ROME (AP) — Scientists and tourists had their eyes on the heavens Saturday, hoping the clouds would stay away at least until after Wednesday's total eclipse. The odds are 2-1 against them.

After weeks of rain and cloudy weather over central Italy, blue skies were the rule for the past week. This raised hopes for a good view of the eclipse, the first total one of the sun since Oct. 12, 1959.

But Prof. Guglielmo Righini — who directs Arcetri Observatory near Florence, which is right in the path of totality — said statistics of the past 100 years "showed we have only a 35 per cen chance of observing the eclipse in good conditions."

Weather experts in Britain have said clouds cover the path of totality — across France, Italy, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and the Soviet Union from 52 to 67 per cent of the time.

Righini's observatory, while setting up equipment on land, also was preparing for an airborne observation to foil any clouds. Righini has a Flying Boxcar on loan from the Italian air force which has been fitted with big glass bay doors so cameras and telescopes can be used.

In Split, Yugoslavia, considered one of the best places to see the eclipse, 250 foreign and Yugoslav scientists were assembling. They too will have an airplane available in case of clouds.

A Yugoslav shipping company is running a special six-day "eclipse tour" of the Adriatic on one of its liners. Hotels in Florence and other Central Italian cities had full bookings. Several Italian tourist agencies arranged special tours to Florence from cities where the eclipse will be only partial.

The sun will rise, with the eclipse already under way, just after 7 a.m. over the Bay of Biscay. The period of totality over the Gulf of Genoa will come 35 minutes later and will last 122 seconds. The eclipse will end shortly after 8:45 a.m.

Angel, he said, is the oldest Italian parish in the city.

The Rev. Raymond Bianchi, assistant pastor at the 111-year-old St. Francis of Assisi Roman Catholic Church, made another protest. He said his church—the national parish of 200,000 Spanish speaking people of Chicago — would be stranded just outside the university area because "our families would be gone...their homes are in the area."

Father Bianchi said he would accompany businessmen of the community to Champaign this week and present petitions to the Illinois trustees protesting the site choice.

Still another cry of opposition arose from the West Side Garfield Park neighborhood, which the university previously had selected for a new campus.

Timothy J. Tuomey Jr. of the Garfield Park Austin Community Council said two busloads of community leaders will go to the trustees meeting Wednesday and make a new pitch to get the university into their neighborhood.

A pair of sweetbreads will do for 2 portions if they are to be served in a cream sauce.

FAN BREEZES

BY STAN SPOTTS

Journal Courier Sports Editor

Like Al Rosenberger said, "I thought football and basketball coaches were the only ones that got shook but man, oh, man, you put two boys on a mat and these wrestling coaches go wild." Al was referring to the excitable actions of the grappling mentors this weekend in the Jacksonville District wrestling competition. We observed the matches with renewed interest and found the reason we sought as to why this is the fastest growing sport in the state. It is good clean competition that teaches the art of sportsmanship and unlike the fake professional sport that soured a number of fans on the game this is scientific wrestling as only high school or college boys can exhibit.

It's a little late in the season now to follow the local teams but when the sport rolls around next winter make going to some of the matches a must on your agenda. You won't be sorry! Once you become acquainted with the lads, you'll find yourself cheering them on such as you would a lad en route to a touchdown or on his way toward scoring a winning bucket.

—o—

The District tournament was handled in an efficient manner by principal John Agger, coach Tom Carmody, recorder Wanda Votsmeier and all the scorers and timers. Agger told us that it was quite an operation before the participating 161 athletes got a chance to show their stuff. From 2-4 p.m. Friday the boys weighed in and then from 4-6 p.m. the coaches had the tremendous task of pairing the boys according to the various 12 weight classes.

—o—

This left the coaches only an hour to grab a bite to eat before the seven o'clock session which took three and one-half hours to complete. Most fans don't realize the fine job Tom Carmody has done for wrestling at Jacksonville High but the mat followers appreciate his untiring efforts which has kept JHS abreast with the increasing popularity of the sport. Year after year he comes up with teams to be reckoned with and for good reason. He knows what he is talking about as he was a champion in his weight division in high school and college.

Two teams had their cheering sections rooting them on during their respective matches. The yell-leaders from Eisenhower of Decatur and Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School were very much in evidence and added to the harmony of the tournament tempo. The two participants are allowed six minutes in which to decision or pin their opponent and true sportsmanship prevails throughout the match. They shake hands to open the duel and wind up doing the same thing and more times than not they will walk off the mats with an arm around the opponent's shoulder. When a lad scores a decision or fall his team congratulates him in the same manner as a football or basketball aggregation will praise a teammate.

One fellow who would be envied by a basketball, football or baseball official is the wrestling referee. It appears his judgment of points awarded or his determination of a pin is never questioned which is some kind of personal satisfaction. But this definitely doesn't hold true for the other sports as the rules committee makes it too difficult for all to interpret the sports laws the same way. Wrestling mats are an expensive item and those fans in attendance at the wrestling affair saw one that was worth more than its weight in gold. The red one with the black runways and the white arrow in the center cost around $2,000 and according to custodian Julian Shepard the mat was handled with extreme caution. According to Agger an egg could be held 10 feet above the costly item and when dropped the mat would absorb the fall and the egg wouldn't break. Now, we didn't ask if he meant a hard-boiled egg! All kidding aside, the treasure is owned and used by Coach Dwaine Marten's Highlanders of MacMurray College.

We've received numerous comments (all favorable) on our brief articles pertaining to the conduct of cheerleaders at athletic contests. Cheerleading anymore gets out of hand and it's going to get a lot worse before it gets better unless the school authorities step in and take a hand in the matter. With cheerleaders yelling constantly instead of limiting their yells to timeouts or between quarters they are driving paying customers away. An elderly fellow told us he used to attend all the games before the cheering situation got out of hand. He said he recently attended a game and vowed he would never come back. And all because there was a constant roar from the cheering section which left him with a splitting headache the rest of the evening. He said he didn't notice it as much at a football contest because the vastness of the gridiron absorbed most of the yells. We're using this fan as an example. There are others who are fed up, too. Whose job is it to teach sportsmanship? Whoever is responsible is falling down on the job. We've been shocked all season by poor sportsmanship but the other night really took top honors. In a close game the visiting team was shooting a free throw and the home section booed and cat-called and instead of the cheerleaders throwing up their arms and trying to quiet the unruly mob they joined in with them. Whose fault is it? If only the poor sports knew their affect didn't bother a good athlete. But it's the idea of the whole thing. We know the home players felt ashamed of their fans for the terrible behavior. One father told me his daughter goes to a game just to see the cheerleading section and has no idea how the game is played which isn't very important to a girl but the yell-leaders should set the example for her to follow. We don't know who is responsible for the cheerleaders' action but whoever it is had better wake up and correct the faulty oversight or more paying customers are going to fall by the wayside and no money—no sport. One school in the city is considering the doing away of cheerleaders altogether.

The best pun of the week came from Coach Bill Merris as he was preparing to send his Blueboys against MacMurray College in the first meeting between the two schools. Noticing a large ivy-painted folding screen set up to separate the IC dressing room from the men's wash room we asked Bill if he thought it would serve its purpose. "Well, I don't know," he replied, "but I bet it'll be the best screen we'll set all night." To some of the fans who don't understand the basketball term it simply means a coach tries to get his players to set a pick or screen which draws a foul from the opponent or enables the man to roll off the screen for a pass and a good shot. Anyway, Illinois College did itself proud in a close loss whether it set a good screen or didn't.

Routt's freshman game with JHS has been moved up a week and will be played this Monday night at seven o'clock in the Our Saviour's gymnasium. St. Mary's varsity unit will be at Our Saviour's gym Wednesday night for two games with the Rocket junior varsity. Game times are 6:45 and 8 p.m.

Bowie Race Course Suffers Another Setback

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—Bowie Race Course's ill-fated winter meeting suffered another setback Saturday when jockeys refused to ride on a muddy track after two races had been run. A three-horse spill occurred in the first race.

Nine days of racing had been canceled prior to Saturday because of snow, and the track had just reopened after being idle since Feb. 2.

A crowd of 15,750 was on hand Saturday.

Head Dancer, ridden by apprentice James P. Verrone, fell in the heavy track while racing with the leaders on the turn. Hidden Mirth, with Larry Adams up, and Woody Glen, ridden by Arthur Chambers, tripped over Head Dancer.

Horses and jockeys had their falls broken by the deep mud and jumped to their feet apparently uninjured.

Big Guns Moe, Larese Riddle Wake Forest

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina's big guns, York Larese and Doug Moe, riddled Wake Forest for 55 points Saturday in the Tar Heels' 93-78 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory.

Larese fired in 30 points and Moe 25 to help the sixth-ranked Tar Heels replace Wake Forest in second place in the ACC standings.

North Carolina has an 8-2 conference record, against 9-1 for pacesetting Duke and 9-3 for Wake Forest.

North Carolina scored the last eight points of the first half to gain a 49-41 lead.

Wake Forest cut the lead to one point in the first five minutes of the second half.

Larese, hitting from the outside, and Moe, from both long and close range, led the Tar Heels out of danger.

HIALEAH TURF WINNER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Harbor View Farm's Wolfram, an even money choice in the betting with the crowd of 26,325, won as he placed Saturday in the 21st running of the $96,000 Hialeah Turf Handicap.

The dark bay won by 2¾ lengths over the Hasty House Farm's Merry Top 2nd.

Three-quarters of a length back of Merry Top 2nd was J. S. Kroese's Civic Guard, with Julian Abdala's Banal another 4½ lengths back. Time for the mile and a half was 2:29 3-5.

Wolfram paid $4.30, $3.30 and $2.80. Merry Top 2nd paid $23.60 and $10. Civic Guard was $8.20 to show.

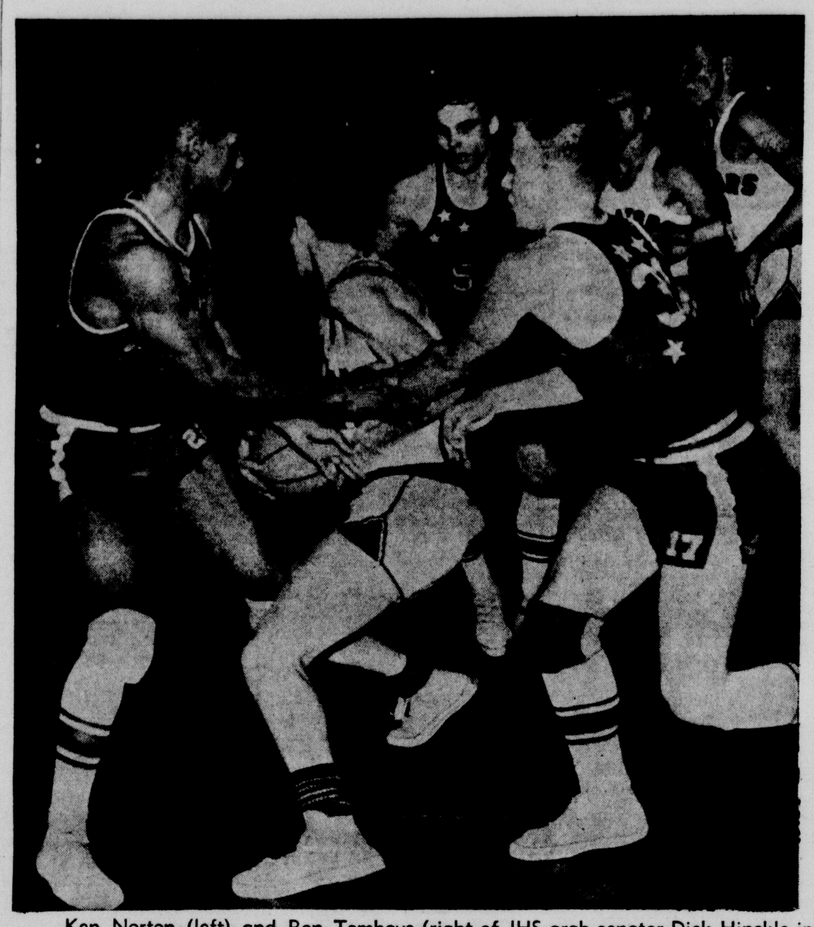
HOLD ON THERE SENATOR!



Ken Norton (left) and Ron Tomhave (right of JHS grab senator Dick Hinckle in the state armory Saturday night but the solon player had better ideas about the reception line and went on his merry way as Coach Ray Page's Springfield High quintet snapped Jacksonville's five-game winning streak, 56-42, before the television cameras. Ron Yates of the losers looks on as does Tom Frick and Bob Plohr (right) of the solons.

Springfield Stymies Jacksonville's 5-Game Winning String, 56-42

SPRINGFIELD—The tall, talented Springfield High School Senators combined rugged rebounding, a rigid defense, and some torrid shooting in the third quarter to spill Coach John Chapman's Jacksonville High School Crimsons, 56-42, in the Illinois State Armory in the capital city. The Senators played their usual slow, ball-control type contest and stressed the pressurized defense that guided them to the State Championship in 1958, as they brought the Crimson winning streak to an abrupt halt. Jacksonville just never got within striking distance of the much taller Senators, and had some lowly shooting percentages, due mainly to their hurried and sometimes distance attempts forced by the tigh fortification thrown up by Springfield.

JHS opened the non conference contest with a 2-1-2 zone, and did a creditable job of rebounding with Springfield on the defensive boards, but Larry Bauer pulled off the first four missed attempts by the Jacks and the Senators jumped off to an early 7-2 lead. Bill Sims finally popped one in with 2:50 to go in the period for the Crimsons' third and fourth points. With Bauer using his 6-7 height to every advantage, the Senators increased their margin, and Chip Baldwin hit on a 20 footer at the buzzer for a 15-8 first period score.

The Crimsons made a small challenge in the second stanza and moved to within five points on another bucket by Baldwin, but Page's crew capitalized on every Jacksonville error and with Bauer and Frick supplying most of the offensive punch, doubled the score at 26-13.

The Jacks were ice cold and missed many shots that seemed to be fairly easy, but there was always that big hand waving in every face. Dick Hinckle, who played a fine floor game, was fouled with one second remaining to the half, and made the one and one situation good for a 28-15 halftime lead for the Senators.

Springfield was spured by Tom Frick and Larry Bauer in the first half with Bauer getting nine points, and Frick eight while the team sank ten of twenty-five attempts for a fine 40% average. Jacksonville, on the other hand, made only six field goals in twenty-four attempts for a frigid 25%. The leading scorer for the Crimsons in the first two periods was Bill Sims with six points.

Chapman sent the Crimsons into a press to open the second half, but Springfield pumped in two straight baskets and jumped out in front by 17. The full court press did seem to rattle the Senators somewhat, but they had one of the hotest quarters possible and hit eight of ten shots and killed any Jacksonville chance of catching the highly rated Springfield quintet. The Jacks did some fine shooting of their own, the only good quarter that they experienced, and hit seven of fourteen attempts, but lost ground and railed by 16, 45-29.

The fourth period saw the Crimsons creep to within 13 points twice, but Springfield continued to rebound with power, and hit the basket with accuracy, to gain their nineteenth win against three losses. The Senators finished with 21 of 44 attempts from the field for 48%, while Jacksonville improved their first half performance and hit 16 of 50 shots for 32%. The Crimsons suffered their eleventh loss against seven wins, and have only four games remaining in the regular season play.

Coach Bob Kraushaar's JV squad took it on the chin also, as the Springfield JV Senators whipped them, 69-50.

Hohenberger Leads Highlanders To Win Over Illinois Tech

CHICAGO — The MacMurray Highlanders did some excellent shooting, and got a fine 26 point production from Marv Hohenberger to slip by Illinois Tech, 77-71. The Highlanders held a narrow lead throughout the contest, but had to hit 48% from the field to nail down victory number fourteen. Illinois Tech is currently rated fifth in the nation, according to the NCAA small college statistics in defense with a 54.3 average, but the Highlanders topped this figure by 13 points. MavMurray did some fine free throw shooting and sank 21 of 27 attempts to send Tech to their fifth defeat.

Hohenberger led all scorers with 26 points, while Tech's 6-5 center, Benevich, collected 23.

Tenacious Regains Winning Form Saturday

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Mrs. Joe W. Brown's Tenacious, champion of the past two Fair Grounds meetings, regained his winning strides Saturday with a three-length victory in the $12,075 LeComte Handicap.

The gallant 7-year-old, who won his last race a year ago, finished first in the LeComte for the third year in a row.

Longshot Tony Graff, winner of last year's Louisiana Derby, trailed the Brown color-bearer under the finish line, with the favored Road House third.

SLIM VICTORIES FOR LOCAL DISTRICT CHAMPS

The three local district wrestling champions had narrow squeakers Saturday night in winning their respective weight classes. Jack Watkins tripped Lemuel Phipps of IBSSS in the last seconds of an overtime. Gilbert Mulch garnered his 13th consecutive victory, winning on a 3-2 ride after being tied 2-2 at the end of regulation time. Dave Crawford also won on riding time, being tied 8-8 after six minutes and then 10-10 at the end of the two one-minute overtimes.

Chisox Expect Another New Pitching Leader

CHICAGO (AP) — If the general pitching script of the Chicago White Sox is followed this season, another new leader of the club's hurling corps is destined to appear.

It could be Cal McLish, who was 19-8 for Cleveland in 1959 and slumped to 4-14 with Cincinnati last year. Or maybe it will be lefty Juan Pizarro, 6-7 with Milwaukee in 1960.

Then there is Herb Score, a 5-10 hardluck hurler in his first season with the Sox last year.

Under the astute guidance of manager Al Lopez, a master teacher of pitchers, one of the three may become the staff's leader and thus maintain a pattern that was started in 1951 when the Sox began their rise from the American League lower levels.

In the last 10 years, seven different pitchers have been staff leaders. It all started in 1951 when a languorour righthander from Brooklyn, Saul Rogovin, won 11 and lost 7. His 2.47 earned run average topped the league. Rogovin repeated in 1952 with 14-9.

In 1953, Virgil Trucks was bought from Bill Veeck, who needed some ready cash in his operations with the St. Louis Browns. Trucks was so glad to get out of bondage he responded with a 20-10 performance.

The Sox surprise of 1954 was Sandy Consuegra with a 16-3 mark. Trucks had 19-12 the same season.

Then a lanky righthander, who had been all but ignored by his owners, the Braves, when they were in Boston and Milwaukee, was introduced by the Sox in 1955. He was Dick Donovan and he registered 15-9 despite an appendictis operation early in the second half of the campaign.

Billy Pierce showed the way in 1956 with 20-9 and Donovan came back in 1957 with 16-6. Pierce was the big man again in 1958 with 17-11.

In 1959 it was Bob Shaw with 18-6 and Early Wynn with 22-10 as the Sox won their first pennant in 40 years.

Last season the new name that glowed was southpaw Frank Baumann, a former $90,000 Boston bonus baby who never had been a big winner. He was 13-6 and his 2.69 ERA was the lowest in the circuit.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Bob Price of Granite City has transferred to the University of Missouri from Houston University. Price and Ron Purcell are the only players to play in the State basketball tournaments by participating for two different schools. Bob Simpson and Fred Riddle of Collinsville high might tie this mark as both played in the State finals for Madison high school two years ago as sophomores.

Collinsville's assistant coach, Bert Weber, said that the Kahoks of Coach Vergil Fletcher should be congratulated for coming from behind last week in beating Madison. Going into the second half losing 36-31 Collinsville turned the tide by winning 80-67. Coach Weber said most teams with 18 wins under their belts, would give up and lose the game. Collinsville had beaten Madison 80-66 in the East St. Louis Holiday tourney.

John Bennington, basketball coach at St. Louis U., went to Collinsville high dressing room after the fine demonstration against Belleville to congratulate the team and commented on the well perfected Kahok defense.

Lewistown turned in a savage second period attack scoring 28 points to beat Macomb's Bombers 68-48 for the Indians' best game of the season. The Fulton county seat five led by 11 points at half time and Phil Bucy fired in 25 points for Coach Bill Wilson's Spoon River conference team.

Lanphier (Springfield) and Quincy high are the new teams on Coach Joe Adam's 1961-62 basketball schedule replacing Alton and Crane Tech (Chicago). Canton will play in the Quincy high tourney and the third annual Canton Holiday tourney. Only one junior, Marty Pschirrer, is on the Canton squad this season and a rebuilding job will be expected next year.

The varsity club at Canton senior high school has undertaken a long term project of renovating and bringing up to date the Athletic Hall of Fame at Alice Ingersoll gym, according to club advisor and athletic director George P. Mathis. John Cruser, Canton high guard and senior, will serve as president of the club and the work on the Hall of Fame will begin Saturday under his direction. The club has about 30 high school athletic letter winners. The club plans to make the project a yearly task to promote better public interest and student support of high school athletes and athletics, according to President Cruser. The other projects being considered by the club include the hanging of pennants of Illini conference teams in the gym. The club hopes to construct and hang two 10-foot figures of Little Giants at the south end of the gym. The Varsity Club was organized last fall and the Hall of Fame project is its first major undertaking.

Eisenhower Captures District Wrestling Title Saturday Night

By STAN SPOTTS

Eisenhower of Decatur dethroned defending team champion Jacksonville Saturday night in the finals of the JHS District Wrestling Tournament. It had been a close duel between the new team champs and Jacksonville throughout the opening round and semifinals but the Panthers came on strong in the finals and left no doubts as they beat second place JHS, 87-72.

Following in order were Quincy, 58; Lanphier, 43; Feitshans, 37; Vandalia, 36; I.B.S.S.S., 34; MacArthur, 25; Decatur, 9; Springfield, 5 and Lakeview 0.

There were some outstanding matches which was befitting to the smoothly conducted ournament. Jack Watkins of JHS and Lemuel Phipps of I.B.S.S.S. staged an evenly matched contest in the 103 pound class which was decided in the closing seconds of the second one-minute overtime. The pair had battled to a 5-5 tie after the regulation six-minute time.

Another interesing match was the 138 pound class between Gilbert Mulch of JHS and Lakeview of Decatur. The pair had two-points apiece after the three two-minute quarers but Mulch was awarded a 3-2 decision which was based on 'riding time.' The win extended Mulch's winning string to 13 straight without a loss.

Dave Crawford of Sy Haliczer's east-side Warriors also had enough riding time to beat Mike Gabriel of Lanphier in overtime. The two grapplers staged an interesting match, perhaps the finest one of the evening. Gabriel rallied to tie Crawford with four seconds remaining in the final quarter, 8-8, and the two were all even after the two one-minute overtime at 10-10 and after consulting the riding time on the clocks referee Ernie Hoff gave Crawford the nod.

Harold Willner lost a heart-breaker for Tom Carmody's Crimsons after leading most of the way. With eight seconds left in the regulation time Patheal rallied to pin Willner in the 180 pound division.

Another long personal winning streak was extended for Gordon Collins of Feitshans with a 5-0 decision over Park of MacArthur. Collins hasn't been stopped in 22 outings.

In the consolation matches the only pin recorded was that of Henry Hatchett in the final heavyweight bout and it came in 3:58. All the other 11 wins came via decisions. Brady earned the only undisputed third place for the Crimsons with a 7-6 decision over Hawkins of Eisenhower in the 95 pound class.

Afternoon Session

Twenty-four prep wrestlers representing nine various schools of the 11-team Jacksonville High District Tournament won semifinal matches Saturday afternoon before a good turnout to earn a crack at a championship berth in their respective weight classes.

A large field started Friday evening and all but 48 were eliminated in the three and a half hour process of elimination. All 48 automatically qualified for the Wood River Sectional next Saturday. Coach Tom Carmody had eight grapplers surviving the Friday cut and Coach Sy Haliczer had four of his I.B.S.S.S. Warriors in the running for coveted honors.

Jacksonville had five participants in the championship finals via three decisions and two falls. Jack Watkins and Gilbert Mulch pinned their opponents in the 103 and 138 pound classes, respectively. Mulch ran his undefeated string to 12 straight victories without a loss in stopping Ruby of Springfield in 5:02. Gary Watkins, Harold Willner and Dale Bernahl of the Crimsons scored their afternoon triumphs on decisions.

Phipps and Crawford of the Illinois Braille and Sight Saving School scored a fall and decision respectively to put two Warriors in the championship bracket.

An All-American Semifinals In Indoor Tourney

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Top-seeded Dick Savitt of New York and a trio of Californians — John Cranston, Chris Crawford and Whitney Reed—erased the last of the foreigners Saturday, setting up an all-American semifinals in the National Indoor Tennis Championships.

Davis Cup aces from Mexico, France and England were sent to the sidelines where the top foreign seed, Orlando Sirola of Italy, was dispatched in the opening round.

The tall, stoop-shouldered Savitt, who may be the best amateur player in the world despite a dislike for international competition, smashed Pierre Darmon of France 6-4, 8-6.

Cranston, 24-year-old Marine corporal from San Moreno, Calif., scored a second straight upset by beating Rafael Osuna of Mexico, co-holder of the Wimbledon doubles title, 6-4, 6-8, 6-3. Friday night he ousted second-seeded Ron Holmberg of Brooklyn.

Crawford, 23, a student at San Jose State College, defeated Billy Knight, left-handed Briton, 10-8, 6-4. Reed, unorthodox swinger from Alameda, Calif., eliminated Crawford Henry of Atlanta, 6-3, 9-7. Henry defeated Sirola in the first round.

In Sunday's semifinals, Savitt faces the fourth-seeded Crawford and Reed, No. 3, plays the unseeded Cranston.

HORSE UPS AND DIES

DUBLIN (AP) — Veterinarians said Saturday that Chamoour winner of the 1960 Irish Derby, died of natural causes. The horse was found dead in his stable Friday.

Chamoour is the horse discovered under the influence of dope last summer while winning a $560 race. The finding touched off investigations all through Britain and resulted in the suspension of Vincent O'Brien, Ireland's No. 1 trainer. He protested his innocence and his suspension was cut in half.

DODGERS TO TRAIN GIANTS

TOKYO (AP) — A 29-member team of the Yomiuri Giants will leave Feb. 27 for the United States to train with the Los Angeles Dodgers, the Tokyo club announced Saturday.

The team, managed by Teuji Kawakami, will begin training at Vero Beach, Florida, March 1 and will return to Tokyo in late March.

Eleven members of the University of Denver hockey team come from Saskatchewan.

Collinsville Keeps Its Record Pure But Clinton And Peoria Manual Lose

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Collinsville's mighty Kahoks kept their record pure Friday in Illinois high school basketball, but Peoria Manual and Clinton suffered their second defeats and Flora stumbled for the third time.

With an 83-70 victory over Alton under their belts, the Kahoks head into a tough match tonight against Edwardsville, one of their three remaining foes. Collinsville, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, has amassed 20 triumphs. Edwardsville came closest to whipping them earlier.

Peoria Spalding, which gave Manual trouble in December, made it this time 52-51 over their fifth-ranked intra-city rivals. Manual seeks to regain the winning path tonight against Peoria Limestone, 56-47 winner over Pekin.

Springfield Lanphier snapped a six-game Clinton winning streak in an 86-82 contest. Lanphier surged back in the final quarter after blowing an 18-point lead. Clinton is ranked seventh.

Bridgeport avenged its single loss to Flora in a 70-48 return match. Bridgeport is rated sixth, Flora 16th.

Rockford, still riding high after its single loss six weeks ago to East Aurora, again conquered Rockford West, this time 69-53. East Aurora faltered before La Salle-Peru, 71-35.

Prospect, which has lost only to Wheaton all season, crumpled Willowbrook 63-48. Prospect is the AP's No. 4 team. Wheaton topped East Leyden 66-52.

Among the three-time losers winning Friday night, Pinckneyville defeated Sparta 75-54, Springfield topped Danville 66-49, Chicago Marshall, defending state champion, trounced Farragut 72-48, Moline edged Iowa City 54-51 and Litchfield broke a 10-game Shelbyville winning streak 71-53.

Twice-beaten Waukegan smothered Niles 60-38. Thornton, two-time losers to Bloom, won 62-60 over Lockport. Bloom won a defense-centered game from Kankakee 38-18.

In the Chicago area, Crane Tech triumphed over Wells 58-52, and once-beaten, ninth-ranked Carver beat Vocational 63-53.

Sterling whipped Rochelle 69-59, Marion beat West Frankfort 88-80. Farmington beat Morton 65-54, Schlarman dumped Bradley 50-40 and Geneva trounced Naperville 78-60.

St. Louis Concordia Halts Blueboys, 82-64

ST. LOUIS—Unable to control a hot Concordia, St. Louis five, Illinois College's Blueboys extended their losing streak to 4-13, being outpointed 82-64 by Coach Eldon Pederson's cagers Saturday night in St. Louis.

Only able to score 10 points in the first ten minutes of play, the Blueboys found themselves as many as 22 points in the hole during the first half. In the second stanza, the Moundsmen quickened the scoring pace and pulled to within six points of the St. Louis five with two minutes remaining in the first half, only to have Concordia pump in two buckets to lead 40-30 as the first chapter ended.

The second half, the Blueboys were unable to rid themselves of the "St. Louis Blues," as Concordia stayed in front as many as 10 and 20 points. The closing moments of the contest saw Coach Merris throw all his marbles into the ring hoping for a comeback, but Concordia was too hot as they hit 31 out of 58 from the field for a 53 percentage.

Not only red hot from the field, Concordia's five hit an amazing 20 out of 22 at the charity line, while the Blueboys hit for 10 of 15.

High for the evening was Blueboy center Bill Schildman with 26, while guard Jim Costello totaled 12. Concordia had five cagers hit for double figures with Jim Zwernemann high for the winners with 16.

The victors added one more win for a 10-7 record, while the Blueboys stand 4-13.

Gophers Squelch Michigan, 70-53

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Sophomore Tom McGrann and Bob Griggas, a crafty backcourt vet, blasted Michigan's upset ambitions in the second half Saturday night and drove Minnesota to a 70-53 basketball victory.

After losing a 10-point lead to Michigan's rapid-fire shooting late in the first half, Minnesota bolted to a 48-38 margin early in the second half and had easy sailing the rest of the way.

McGrann, the Gophers' 6-7 scoring leader, hit 13 points after intermission and finished with 20. Griggas, whose jump shots and driving layups broke the game open, harvested 10 points in the second half and 19 for the route.

The victory raised Minnesota's Big Ten mark to 5-4 while the Wolverines were losing their sixth straight in the conference without a success.

Griggas, McGrann and Dick Erickson pushed Minnesota into a 23-13 advantage with seven minutes left of the half but Wolverine football star Scott Maentz' tip-ins and hook shots, combined with Tidwell's bullseyes, pulled Michigan even at 32-all at the rest.

Minnesota's Cal Sabatini and Michigan's Tom Cole swapped field goals to lead off the second half but Griggas and McGrann went on a scoring tear that quickly put Minnesota in control.

MICKEY WRIGHT MAKES EARLY BID IN WOMENS' MEET

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Mickey Wright, tall blonde Californian now playing out of Dallas, fired a four-under-par 67 Saturday, taking a one-stroke lead in the $7,500 St. Petersburg Women's Open Golf Tournament.

Miss Wright's 54-hole card read 72-70-67—209. It sends her into Sunday's finals one stroke ahead of Louise Suggs of Atlanta, who has three rounds of 70 over the 6,160-yard Sunset Golf Course.

Kathy Cornelius, playing out of Phoenix, Ariz., fell into a tie for third with Ruth Jessen of Cincinnati at 213. Mrs. Cornelius led the first day with a 67 and was in second place going into Saturday's round.

Kansas State Come-Back Halts Iowa State, 66-65

Two weeks ago at Ames, Iowa, Peithman did the same thing to Iowa State, netting a long goal with eight seconds left, giving Kansas State a 72-70 victory.

Iowa State outshot the Wildcats from the floor 43 per cent to 31 per cent and led 61-51 with nine minutes to go Saturday night. The lead was trimmed to 65-60 with less than a minute remaining.

Then Peithman pitched in two field goals and Phil Heithmeier hit one, setting the stage for Peithman's winning shot from the corner.

Larry Comley led Kansas State with 19 points, while Peithman had 18. Tops for the losers was Terry Roberts with 16.

Purdue Halts Illinois, 89-73

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Purdue's Boilermakers clipped Illinois' four-game winning string 89-73 Saturday night with Terry Dischinger fattening his Big Ten scoring lead with a 39-point performance.

Dave Downey of Illinois matched the 6-foot-7 Dischinger's 14 field goals and each took only 24 shots from the field. Downey added only one free throw in two attempts, however, while Purdue's Olympic team veteran made 11 of 12.

Dischinger had two of his best nights as a sophomore against Illinois last year, scoring 43 in one game and 38 in the other. He also helped Purdue dominate the rebounds Saturday night, hauling down 18 of Purdue's 50. Downey, 6-4, got 15 of the Illini's 40 rebounds.

Illinois led at 21-19 but Dischinger made the next five points and Purdue led the rest of the way. The Boilermakers were on top 46-33 at the half.

Purdue shot 50.7 per cent from the field, hitting 35 of 69 attempts. Illinois made 32 of 76 for 42.1.

Bobsled Lead To Eugenio Monti

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Eugenio Monti, of Italy, bidding for his fifth consecutive world title, took the lead Saturday at the halfway mark of the world two-man bobsled championships and clipped nearly a second and a half off his old record.

The United States' sleds were fifth and sixth.

Responding to the challenge of 18 other sleds from 10 nations, Monti zoomed down Mt. Van Hoevenberg's one-mile run in 1 minute, 10.66 seconds in the second heat and piled up a combined time of 2:22.28. His first heat was clocked in 1:11.62.

Sergio Zardini, Monti's Italian teammate held third place.

Detroit Scores 82-71 Victory Over Notre Dame

DETROIT (AP) — A hot start and an equally blistering finish carried tournament-bound Detroit to an 82-71 victory over Notre Dame Saturday in their nationally televised basketball game.

After building up a 16-point lead in the first half, the Titans encountered some blazing shooting by the Irish during the next 15 minutes and fell behind 64-53.

Then, with just more than seven minutes left on the clock, Detroit caught fire again and proceeded to turn the game into a virtual rout of avenge an early loss to the Irish and post its 13th victory against 7 losses.

A layup and free throw by Frank Chickowski shot the Titans, who'll play in next month's National Invitation Tourney at New York, into the lead for keeps.

Larry Hughes then scored a basket and Dave Debusschere and Charley North each followed with two free throws before a foul shot by John Tully ended a Notre Dame dry spell of 4½ minutes.

Debusschere, Detroit's all-America hopeful, topped all scorers with 26 points and also captured 19 rebounds. Chickowski added 20 and John Morgan 12 for Detroit. Armand Reo headed the Irish with 18 points.

Notre Dame outscored Detroit from the floor, 31 to 28 field goals. But the Titans gained a 26 to 9 advantage in free throws for the triumph.

Morris MacDonald was the only driver to win both ends of the daily double on two occasions at the Yonkers, N. Y., harness track last season. He performed the feat within nine days in October.

Palmer Takes Command Of Lead In Phoenix Open

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Rushing up from behind in his typical fashion, Arnold Palmer took command of the $30,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament at the three-quarter mark Saturday.

Palmer fired a four-under-par 66 in the third round and is 10 under par at 200 for 54 holes.

He will carry a two-stroke lead over defending champion Jack Fleck into Sunday's final 18.

Palmer's third straight sub-par round had to share the limelight with a hole-in-one shot by young Frank Boynton of Orlando, Fla.

While Palmer, 1960's leading money winner and golfer of the year, was gaining with his aggressive play, second-round leader Henry Williams blew to a 76 and fell seven strokes off the pace at 207.

Big Bill Collins, who lost the Phoenix title to Fleck in a playoff last year, and Don January were three strokes back of Palmer with 203s.

Dave Marr, who entered Saturday's play as the nearest challenger two strokes behind Williams, slipped two over par with a 72 Saturday and tied with Johnny Pott at 205.

Palmer started out needing to overcome a three-stroke deficit. He pulled ahead of Fleck on the back nine with birdies on the long par four 12th, par three 15th and the par five 18th.

Fleck came in with a 67 for his 202 total.

Boynton, a 24-year-old who has been on the tour only seven months, got his hole in one with a six iron on the 140-yard third hole.

He didn't do so well the rest of the way, however, shooting a 72 for 212 in three rounds.

The field was cut to the 60 pros with scores of 216 or better for the final round.

Leaders after the third round:

Arnold Palmer	69-65-66—200

Bradley Captures Monmouth Meet; Highlanders 2nd

MONMOUTH — Bradley University barely nudged MacMurray and host Monmouth here Saturday in Monmouth College's invitational wrestling tourney.

The Braves finished with 58 points, MacMurray 56, Monmouth 54 and Knox 37. The Highlanders might have had a chance to take top honors but they had no entry in the 191 pound class.

Larry Daly pinned both of his opponents to run his undefeated record to 10 straight without a setback. Andy O'Brien of the Highlanders won a decision, 7-4, as did 167 pound Bill Weber and heavyweight Gary Bass.

Lucas Sparks Ohio State To 83-68 Victory

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Jerry Lucas scored 48 points—a new Big Ten single game scoring high—to lead Ohio State, the nation's No. 1 basketball team to a 83-68 victory over Michigan State Saturday night.

The previous conference single game high was 47 points, scored by Don Schlundt of Indiana twice in games in 1954 and 1955.

The feat by the 6-foot-8 Ohio State star also fractured the Spartan Field House record of 46 points by Robin Freeman of Ohio State in 1956.

Michigan State surprised the standing-room-only crowd of 12,117 by grabbing an early lead from the top-ranked team in the nation and managing to cling to a 39-38 advantage at the half.

Lucas, who dropped in most of his shots from above at his station next to the basket, kept the Bucks in competition in the first half with his 21 points. John Havlicke, with 12 points, was the only other effective Ohio State scorer in the first half. Havlicke finished with 20 points.

High for MSU was Art Schwarm, also with 20 points.

Michigan State was ahead 8-1 before the Bucks scored their first basket, by Lucas. The Spartans built their edge to 16-7 before Ohio State started catching up.

AMERICAN COMET UPSETS FAVORITES

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)— American Comet blazed into contention turning for home and upset the favorites Saturday in the $57,800 San Antonio Handicap at Santa Anita Park.

Earning a berth in the $100,000-added Santa Anita Handicap Feb. 25, the 5-year-old horse, racing in the silks of C. W. Smith of Detroit, beat out 8-year-old How Now in the driving finish. Grey Eagle was third.

The time for the mile and an eighth was 1:48 3-5.

American Comet, ridden by Bill Harmatz, paid $22.40, $9.80 and $6.80; How Now $6.60 and $4.60, and Grey Eagle $7.20.

C. V. Whitney's heavy betting favorite, Tompion, was sixth, and the second betting choice, T. V. Lark, was ninth.

Coach Bill Strannigan of Wyoming says he has seen only one basketball player better than North Carolina's Doug Moe, 6-foot-6 senior. "He was Wilt Chamberlain when he played for Kansas," says Strannigan.

Advance Camps Will Be Operating On Five Fronts Next Week

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Although opening day is eight weeks off, the baseball season already is with us. Advance camps for exceptional minor leaguers or veterans with a problem, will be operating on five fronts before the week is over.

Detroit was the first to get into action with 60 Tigers, including 19 from the major league roster, already on the scene in Lakeland, Fla. Bob Scheffing, new manager, is getting his first look at his talent.

The Chicago Cubs, still without a manager, have been having a series of briefing meetings at Mesa, Ariz., for over a week. The eight coaches and Richie Ashburn, a consultant from the outfield, are kicking around a host of ideas. So far, there have been no reports of stabbing or gunfire.

The Cubs' pitchers and catchers are due to show up Sunday.

St. Louis has a delegation of some 32 players invited to gather at Homestead, Fla., Sunday for a 16-day run before the regular camp opens at St. Petersburg, Fla. More than half of the men on the Cards' regular roster are due for this early work.

Ralph Houk, Casey Stengel's successor as manager of the New York Yankees, has asked 29 players to turn out Monday for an advance camp at Miller Huggins Field in St. Petersburg. A couple of the men have been given permission to skip the first few days because of other duties. Outfielder Leroy Thomas, for instance, has been playing winter ball in Latin America.

Among the more interesting experiments expected to take place in the Yanks' early camp is an attempt to groom Ryne Duren, the relief pitcher, as a starter. Bill Short, young lefty who was given a big buildup last spring, will get a long, hard look.

Deron Johnson, former outfielder who was switched to third base last year, also may be worked at first base. Pedro Gonzales, a .327 hitter at Binghamton, N.Y. where he led the Eastern League, also is another new infielder of promise.

Charlie Keller's two sons will be on hand. Don, 20, a right-handed hitting infielder, hit .280 at Fargo, N.D. last year. Charlie, 21, a switch hitter, batted .304 at Fargo. He is an outfielder, like his dad.

Baltimore has asked eight or nine players to report at Miami Wednesday, five days early. Four of those who have been asked are men who were injured last year and may need extra time to get ready. In that category are Jim Gentile, Pete Ward, Gene Stephens and Barry Shetrone. Others to come early include pitchers Milt Pappas and Jerry Walker, bonus boy Dave Nicholson and Earl Robinson, acquired from the Los Angeles Dodgers during the winter.

For the most part the varsity batterymen of the 18 major league clubs will not report until Feb. 19 or later.

Hornets Defeat Crimson JVs

MT. STERLING — Brown County High jumped off to an early lead and then had to stave off a second half threat to turn back Coach Bob Krauchaar's JHS junior varsity quintet Friday night, 56-46.

The losers trailed by 12 at halftime, 24-12, but sliced the deficit to three after three quarters, 36-33, and then ran out of steam in the final period as Coach Sherm Hefner's Hornets came on strong with 20 points in the closing eight minutes of play.

The winners had three players in the twin-figures with John McCoy's 17 points sparking the drive. Mike Mentler led the losers with 14 tallies.

Hawkeyes Claw Indiana 74-67

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)—Iowa's Hawkeyes, their wings supposedly clipped by the scholastic loss of four starters this week, clawed Indiana's basketball team 74-67 Saturday night.

Szykowny scored eight points, two fielders and four free throws, after Indiana rallied to tie the score at 64-64 with 2:50 to play.

Indiana appeared to be still in a state of shock from the 100-65 beating it absorbed at Ohio State last week. The Hoosiers now have left with a 3-3 league record.

Iowa led 39-31 at the half. It was uphill for Indiana the rest of the way, and Szykowny squelched the Hoosiers' late rally.

Braves Outclass St. Louis, 69-54

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bradley's Braves, led by Chet Walker's 31-point performance, outclassed a patched-up St. Louis club 69-54 Saturday night and stayed on the heels of leader Cincinnati in the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race.

The Braves now stand 6-2 in Valley play and 16-4 for all games. Cincinnati is in front with 7-2. St. Louis has a 3-4 conference record and is 12-7 for all games.

The Billikens stayed close until Bradley ran off 13 straight points to get a 29-13 lead with 4:42 left in the first half. St. Louis closed the gap to 33-27 at halftime.

Walker grabbed 18 rebounds, giving his club a 44-41 edge under the boards.

St. Louis was never closer than six points in the last half and the Braves did a masterful job of keep-away in the closing minutes.

The Bills were hurt by the loss of Gordon Hartweger, their best outcourt shooter, who was hospitalized by flu. They already had lost senior Bob Nordmann for the season through an injury. Nordmann's brother, Bill, led St. Louis with 13 points.

Northwestern Wins On Caciatore's Tally

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—Bill Caciatore hit his third basket of the game in the final six seconds Saturday and gave Northwestern a 54-52 Big Ten basketball victory over Wisconsin.

Caciatore, a junior guard, returned to action for the first time in a week after serving a disciplinary suspension.

The regionally-televised victory ended a three-game Northwestern losing streak and raised the Wildcats to a 3-5 conference record. It was the Badgers' sixth straight licking, leaving them without a victory over Northwestern since March 1957 and with a Big Ten mark of 1-5.

The game, with both teams cold-shooting, was tied five times and the lead changed 14 times. The greatest Northwestern lead was eight points.

With 2:43 left to play, Wisconsin's Ken Siebel made a lay-up shot for his 17th point of the game and tied the score 52-52. From then on, Northwestern went into a weaving stall and retained the ball as Wisconsin held back and took no chance of committing a foul.

Northwestern hit only 34.2 per cent of its floor shots and made only 4 of 13 free throws. Wisconsin was a poor 29.9 per cent from the court and made 12 of 14 free tosses. The Badgers out-rebounded Northwestern 64-43.

Miss Carolann Hammersten, a skilled home economist with an excellent reputation as a lecturer, will be the cooking school hostess. She will be assisted by Miss Elizabeth McKellin, also an expert at the preparation of delictable foods.

In order to assure that there will be a seat for everyone attending the school admission will be by previously purchased tickets only. By purchasing her ticket well in advance, a housewife will be able to get to the school each evening just before 7:30 and be assured of a seat.

Tickets for each evening will cost 10 cents apiece. All money collected will be turned over to the Morgan County Crippled Children's Association. The Jacksonville Journal Courier makes no profit from the sale of cooking school tickets.

After one week of ticket sales by mail, all remaining tickets will be placed on sale over the counter of the Journal Courier business office, beginning at 9 a.m. Monday, Feb. 20.

The purchase of a ticket is only for a seat in the auditorium during the cooking school sessions. Anyone, whether he attends the school or not, may register for gifts in the lobby of the school auditorium before or during the sessions each evening.

An individual does not have to be present to receive a cooking school gift.

Soviet Rejects French Regrets For Plane Attack

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union Saturday night rejected France's explanation of the shooting during a flight of President Leonid Brezhnev over the Mediterranean and insisted on punishment of the French fliers responsible.

"The unprecedented attack is nothing but an act of international banditry committed by the French air force," said a Foreign Ministry statement made public by the news agency Tass. "To whitewash such actions and to exculpate the guilty is a risky undertaking."

France has promised a full investigation of the incident, which occurred when a French jet fighter intercepted an Ilyushin 18 plane carrying Brezhnev to Morocco on an African tour and fired bullets across its nose.

French officials in Algiers have claimed the Soviet aircraft failed to follow proper flight procedure.

Tass said Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko rejected this explanation at a meeting here with the French charge d'affaires, Jean de la Grandville. The two spent 45 minutes discussing "in a working atmosphere" the points in the dispute.

De la Grandville had tendered French apologies and the outline of the French position during a more-or-less informal talk Friday night with Deputy Foreign Minister Arkady Sobolev. At 8 a.m. Saturday he marched up the icy steps of the Foreign Office and repeated the performance, in more detail, during a half-hour with Gromyko.

There were two sharp points of conflict:

The Soviets insist the plane was on the course outlined to the French government before the flight began. The French contend the plane was flying too far south along the Mediterranean in the area off the Algerian coast which the country considers its zone of responsibility in conducting the war against the Algerian rebels.

The French also insist their pilot did not fire at the plane, as claimed in the Soviet protest note. Instead, De la Grandville told Gromyko, the fighter pilot tried twice to talk to the plane by radio using the established wavelengths for such messages. When he got no reply, De la Grandville told Gromyko, the pilot fired warning shots as a signal the plane should veer northward.

Louisianan Lauds Kennedy's Views On Integration

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The top state sovereignty leader for Gov. Jimmie H. Davis said Saturday he was very encouraged that President Kennedy seems to understand Louisiana's school integration problem.

Chairman Frank Voelker Jr. of the State Sovereignty Commission said he felt the President's news conference comments showed "a new and fairer, more sensible and more realistic approach to a solution of one of our most critical domestic problems."

While Voelker spoke only for himself, his comments in an Associated Press interview, were the first public reaction to Kennedy's views by a member of the Davis administration.

The governor, ill with influenza, has declined comment.

Davis did not back anyone for president, showing irritation at both party platforms on the civil rights issue. But Louisiana gave its 10 electoral votes to Kennedy.

Davis Thursday summoned the legislature to its fifth straight special session, starting at noon Wednesday. This time it will consider a local option system offering people the choice of private, segregated school.

Two New Orleans schools were integrated by federal courts Nov. 14. Now schools in populous East Baton Rouge Parish and rural St. Helena face the next desegregation orders.

Clean Towel—

Donates Truck For Rescue Organization

Jacksonville's Emergency and Rescue Squad will receive a walk-in van type truck in the next few weeks through the courtesy of the Jacksonville Clean Towel Service, according to word received by Bill Buchanan, chairman of the newly organized group.

The company headquarters at Chicago sent word that the firm would be willing to donate a truck free of charge to the newly organized emergency unit to help get the ball rolling. Two company representatives will visit the city soon to complete arrangements for the truck. The truck will be one of the several hundred traded each year by the company and will be the first piece of equipment on the list needed by the group.

The emergency group will complete the job of getting the truck in top-notch condition and ready for service soon after arrival. The truck will be arranged to handle the emergency gear needed.

Plans are in the formulation stages for obtaining several items of equipment needed and will be made public as soon as confirmation is received from the suppliers and prices established.

Voters Approve Bond, Tax Issues In Beardstown Area

Voters in the Beardstown Sanitary District registered a strong affirmative vote Saturday as they approved two issues concerning proposed construction and increased tax rates. Seven hundred and forty one votes were cast in the twelve hour election, a somewhat heavier vote than was expected.

By a vote of 699 to 41 voters registered approval for a proposed bond issue of $390,000 for financing construction of a sewage treatment plant. The proposed structure will be built on West 6th Street in Beardstown near U.S. Highway 67. The building will house offices, lab space, chemical mixing and vacuum filter rooms, storage space, loading area, settling tanks and other necessary equipment.

A second issue, whether to increase the maintenance tax by .083, a doubling of the present rate to a maximum of .166, was approved by a somewhat lesser margin with 610 yes votes to 116 nos.

The polls in Beardstown were open for voters from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

Residents of Beardstown said Saturday that the future plans on the new sewage plant are not completely definite but among the next steps will be filing application for federal funds to aid in completing the project.

Elect Four Trustees For Passavant Hospital Board

The Board of Governors of Passavant Memorial Area Hospital elected four new members to the Board of Trustees at the annual governors meeting Feb. 9 at Grace Methodist church. The governors are selected by the Protestant churches of the hospital community.

The new trustees are Miss Grace Fitch, principal of Franklin school; Leland Perbix, farm manager for Farmer's State Bank, and Robert Spink, who is associated with the Spink Insurance Agency, all of Jacksonville. The fourth new member of the board is Martin Burrus, hybrid seed corn producer, of Arenzville.

Around 100 governors, trustees, and guests attended the dinner meeting. The invocation was offered by the Rev. H. Russell Coulter, superintendent of Methodist churches in this district.

W. O. Randall, president of the Board of Trustees, conducted the business session and introduced the speaker, Administrator Roy Erickson. Mr. Erickson discussed Passavant's role as a private, voluntary, non-profit, non-tax-supported, community general hospital. He said that Passavant now has plant assets valued at more than three million dollars. With an annual payroll of $800,000, it is one of Jacksonville's largest employers.

The speaker said that comparisons often are made between the costs of hospitals and hotels. He pointed out that in the year 1959-60 at Passavant Memorial Area Hospital the total cost per patient per hospital day according to Illinois Public Aid reimbursable cost formula was $27.96. Of this amount, $7.28 represents the part of hospital service which can be compared with hotel accommodations. Depreciation costs account for $2.07, and the remaining $18.61 is the hospital cost fos services such as x-ray, laboratory, nursing service and education, dietary, pharmacy, medical records, anesthesia, emergency room, and delivery room. Costs which can fairly be compared to hotels represent only 26 per cent of the whole figure.

He outlined some of the immediate needs of the hospital, which include the continuing improvement of patient care, some changes in operational organization, an employee training program, sound financing, the purchase of new equipment, and an expanded public relations program.

"Passavant is indeed a medical center in this community," Mr. Erickson continued, "and its role as a health center is likely to increase faster in the next 10 10 years."

Four retiring trustees were honored for outstanding service to PMAH. Lawrence Oxley, a former trustee, presented certificates of recognition to Ben Montee, Raymond Watson, A. C. Hart, and Lawrence Crawford. Mr. Montee was president of the Board during the building fund campaign. Mr. Watson headed the Board during the building of the new school and patient facilities. Mr. Hart has served as the hospital's treasurer for several years, and Mr. Crawford was chairman of the building committee before and during construction of the new building.

Mr. Hart presented the report of the finance committee, and Walter R. Bellatti, vice president of the Board of Trustees, reviewed the developments of the past year for the hospital. He cited the completion of the new building and the re-accreditation of the School of Nursing as outstanding achievements, and emphasized the need for a larger endowment fund.

Dr. Thomas Wilson, president of the medical staff, spoke briefly on "Hospital Accreditation," explaining the purposes and procedures of accreditation.

The benediction was offered by the Rev. Herbert Rose, pastor of Salem Lutheran church.

President Flies To Rented Estate For Weekend

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP) — President Kennedy took a weekend off—the first since he became chief executive—and flew Saturday to his rented estate in Virginia's famed horse and hounds country.

The President left the White House by helicopter and landed at a cleared spot in a snowy field at Glen Ora, the retreat two miles from here, where he and Mrs. Kennedy plan to spend many weekends during the next four years.

A light snow had been falling for hours. But it quit shortly before the President arrived. A pale sun was trying to burn through a winter haze.

Kennedy hopped into a car and rode the 200 yards to the French-style house of stucco and brick, perched on a hilltop overlooking the rolling countryside.

Mrs. Kennedy was waiting at the front door with arms out and a kiss for her husband. She was wearing a beige sweater and brown slacks. Inside, she had a log fire roaring on the hearth.

The President and First Lady had lunch and then the chief executive figured on getting in some reading in front of the fire.

He brought along two briefcases which White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said contained various reports. But he also brought with him a book by Dr. Vannevar Bush "Science, The Endless Frontier."

Mrs. Kennedy went to Glen Ora Friday, with 3-year-old daughter Caroline. Eleven-week-old John Jr. remained at the White House.

While Kennedy plans to take off for the White House at 9 a.m. Monday, Jacqueline Kennedy expects to remain until Tuesday night or Wednesday morning. Sunday, the President and First Lady will attend Roman Catholic services in a community center in Middleburg.

Three helicopters brought the President, some of his staff, and Secret Service agents on the 45-mile trip from Washington. Kennedy landed at 1:07 p.m.

It was the first family's first visit to Glen Ora.

As always, special communications facilities were set up for the President. He can keep in instant touch with the White House through an Army Signal Corps trailer with a switchboard. It is located behind the stable at Glen Ora.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had a similar communications setup at his country estate at Gettysburg, Pa.

The two presidential retreats, here and at Gettysburg, have a number of similarities. Each is a short distance from town. Each looks off toward the first ranges of the Appalachian Mountains. Each is in the center of an area that was of strategic importance during the Civil War a century ago.

In character, Middleburg and Gettysburg are far apart. The latter is far larger, has some industry, and goes in less for studied leisure and the social life of the hunt country atmosphere.

While Kennedy hasn't shown an inclination to ride extensively, his wife enjoys riding.

At the estate there is plenty of room for horses. There also is a swimming pool near the house and not far from the pool is a tennis court which the President may use occasionally.

Mrs. Vernon Scholfield, program chairman, presented Mrs. L. K. Gilchrist, who gave an interesting paper, An Analysis of Poetry. "All literature," Mrs. Gilchrist said, "is divided into two great classes, poetry and prose." Poetry, the first to develop, was evidenced in almost every nation in its very early stages. Songs, often chanted, were a part of worship. From these, grew the lyric and dramatic poetry. Mrs. Gilchrist described the epic, ballad and lyric and pointed out characteristics of each. She mentioned the poets' tools, the simile, metaphor, hyperbole and others and read verses as illustrations.

Poetry, Mrs. Gilchrist stated, can best be judged by its heart value, which is the supreme test by which men and art become immortal or fail. In closing she stressed the value of family poetry reading.

Lovely refreshments, in the Valentine motif, were served from an attractive tea table where Mrs. Armitage poured. Mrs. William Cody and Mrs. John Sommers, assisted the hostess in serving.

Mrs. Laura MacLean of Boston, Mass. and Mrs. Robert Allan, were guests.

A Drive To Support!

The Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce has announced that it plans to launch a drive next week to secure new memberships. This effort to strengthen the organization should be supported strongly by all business and professional people who are interested in a healthy and prosperous community.

The Chamber of Commerce is the only organization designed primarily to stimulate business, secure new industry and promote the economic growth of the Jacksonville area. It also supports all sound efforts for the advancement of civic and cultural interests.

The Chamber of Commerce is not a profit-making group. Its operations are funded solely through membership dues. These annual payments represent solid investments in Jacksonville's future. They should be widely shared through an expanded membership, not only to produce more operating income but to enlist more active and enthusiastic workers in the many worthwhile and important activities of the Chamber.

Fitting And Proper

Nineteen-sixty-one marks the Centennial of the outbreak of the Civil War. As befits the importance of this conflict and its incalculable effect upon the history of the American people, many public gatherings, battle re-enactments and other observances have been planned.

The words of Abraham Lincoln at Gettysburg come fresh to mind: "It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this."

But what Lincoln went on to say over 97 years ago still holds today: It is far above our poor power to add to or detract from what those brave men did.

Again, to paraphrase Lincoln, we their descendants should rather dedicate ourselves to finishing the great task. For though the dead of that war, and even those who listened to Lincoln, are long since vanished into dust, the principles which impelled them are as alive and vital today as they ever were, and in as great danger.

As long as injustice and human slavery, of mind as well as body, exist, that work remains unfinished. As long as freedom stands in jeopardy from whatever enemy, the idea we call America, which so many men in so many wars have so nobly advanced, still demands a new resolve in 1961. Today, Lincoln's birthday, is a fitting time to ponder on it.

It is in this sense that we should enter into the Centennial observances. Only if we draw from them an increased devotion to our country, and to the strivings for liberty and peace by men of all countries, will they have had real meaning.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wacky comedy, the kind turned out by prewar Hollywood to help a nation laugh itself out of a depression, is back.

Producer Robert Arthur, discoverer of Stanley Shapiro, is a leader in this renaissance in hilarity. While much of Hollywood relied on Tennessee Williams and other purveyors of abnormal sex themes, Arthur put his faith in Stanley Shapiro and belly-laughs.

Arthur's recent credits include "The Perfect Furlough," "Operation Petticoat," "The Great Imposter," "Come September" and the current "Lover, Come Back." "Operation Petticoat" has become the biggest grosser in Universal-International's history.

"The secret of producing successful original comedy is lining up talent like Tony Curtis, Rock Hudson, Cary Grant, Doris Day, Gina Lollobrigida and Stanley Shapiro," says Arthur.

Who is Stanley Shapiro? The Motion Picture Almanac doesn't even list him.

"Stanley Shapiro," answers Arthur, the producer who discovered Abbott and Costello and Francis the mule, "is without doubt the greatest comedy writer of the age. He's my greatest discovery."

Arthur discovered Shapiro via a 10-page story outline for "The Perfect Furlough."

"Stanley had been a gag writer for Fred Allen on radio. I liked his story outline because it had that imaginative wackiness that some of the great Cary Grant comedies had in the Thirties.

"Stanley, however, said he wouldn't sell the story idea unless he went along as screenwriter. I asked him how much he wanted. He told me $1,500 a week for the first picture, since it was his debut; after that he would want a percentage of the picture.

"I can remember his words then: 'I won't ask for that until after my second or third picture, either one of which will win me an Oscar.'

"Any other producer in town would have thrown him out of the office. I signed him. I think it was his third picture, 'Pillow Talk,' that won him an Oscar.

"Now on 'Lover, Come Back,' with Rock and Doris, the top two box office stars, Stanley not only has a cut of the gross but will also get producer credit.

"Now every producer in town is after Stanley," says Arthur, "but he's mine, mine, all mine."

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Who's going to make Bob Hope slow down?

Headlines from time to time tell of a Hope dizzy spell—and it worries everybody but Rapid Robert himself.

Bob says that 1959 blood clot in his left eye slowed him for a few weeks. But now his pace is as fast as ever.

"Me retire? Slow down? Never," says Bob. "I'd die before I would give up hearing an audience laugh. It's the greatest tonic, the greatest medicine in the world. I just can't describe how it exhilarates me."

Laughs undoubtedly lift Bob but, as one doctor told him, his blood vessels don't hear the laughs.

"Once in a while I forget that I'm almost Bing's age and let myself get over tired."

Bing and Bob are both 56 with Crosby having 24 days on Hope.

Though the two are great friends, no two could be more different. Bing hates crowds, likes to fish and hunt.

Hope always wants an audience —whether its thousands of GIs or a pal on the other end of a telephone.

"I just love people," he explains. "The only other business that ever vaguely interested me besides showbusiness was owning a restaurant. It seemed to me that it would be exciting greeting people every day."

That facet of the Hope character may explain his success. This sincere love of people comes across. Cynics are always looking for the chink in the Hope armor but apparently there is none. He is genuine.

If Bob had been a phony, he would have given up his annual GI Christmas tours years ago. There is little publicity value in it—at least not enough to combat the hardships endured.

"If I couldn't play for the troops anymore," says Bob, "That would be the saddest day of my life. Where else could I get such a captive audience? Those guys know they can't walk out on my jokes. I got all their non-coms bribed."

Hope's latest dizzy spell came after his Christmas trip to the Caribbean. His first came in 1959 on a similar jaunt to Spain.

It's a gruelling schedule and sometimes flights to remote areas are in ancient craft.

"One of the planes we flew in the Caribbean had the insurance machine on the plane," quips Bob. "I think it was a DC1."

"Do you enjoy flying?" I asked him once.

"You know, no one has ever asked me that before. I suppose that's because I've flown so many thousands of miles that everybody thinks the answer is too obvious."

Then he gave a surprising answer.

"No, since you ask me. I'm scared to death of flying."

Hope started entertaining troops long before Pearl Harbor—and he could be the first comic to entertain the detachment that eventually will be stationed on the moon.

They'll Do It Every Time

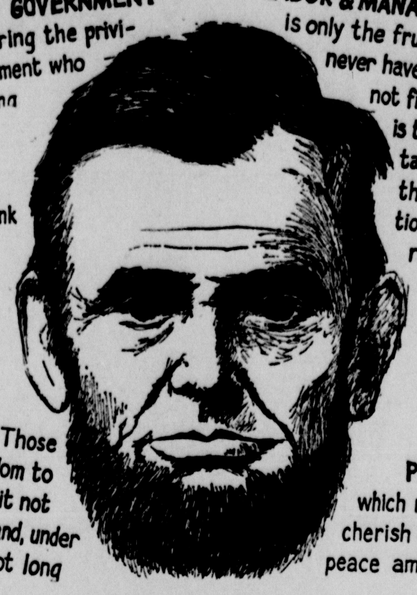
LINCOLN, on problems of our time:



DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT I go for all sharing the privileges of government who assist in bearing its burdens.

DEFENSE I think the necessity of being ready increases— Look to it.

CIVIL RIGHTS Those who deny freedom to others deserve it not for themselves, and, under a just God, cannot long retain it.

LABOR & MANAGEMENT Capital is only the fruit of labor, and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital and deserves much the higher consideration. Capital has its rights, which are as worthy of protection as any other rights.

PEACE ....to do all which may achieve and cherish a just and lasting peace among ourselves, and with all nations.

FREEDOM What constitutes the bulwark of our own liberty and independence? It is not our frowning battlements, our bristling seacoasts, our army and our navy. These are not our reliance against tyranny. All of those may be turned against us without making us weaker in the struggle. Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in us. Our defense is in the spirit which prized liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands, everywhere.

Morality Has Global Role In Struggle for Men's Minds

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— The text for today will be a line and a half from the State of the Union message of President John F. Kennedy:

"Morality in private business has not been sufficiently spurred by morality in public business."

Heavy Fines And Prison Sentences imposed on a few top officials of virtually all of America's largest electrical manufacturers for violations of the antitrust laws over the past five years is, in the words of Chief Judge J. Cullen Ganey, "a shocking indictment of a vast section of our economy."

Publications of the American labor unions have been playing up this theme for a long time. Whenever some business executive gets caught in a fast deal, the labor press gives the news a big ride.

The reason is obvious. It is to offset similar stories played up by business papers on the prevalence of racketeering by labor union officials.

Both sides seem justified in these criticisms, though they may relate only to minorities of both executive groups.

But coupled with cases of crookedness in the ranks of government officials, the break down of ethical conduct at all top levels of American life is made to appear a national scandal

The Eisenhower Administration came to Washington eight years ago, dedicated to "cleaning up the mess in Washington" and to conducting a government "clean as a hound's tooth." Its record was a score of top officials involved in conflict of interest cases. This was topped by disclosures of even more congressmen of both parties who were exceedingly careless in their handling of government allowances for official expenses.

The result of all this was the drafting of a number of codes of ethical conduct by Congress and the executive agencies of government for the behavior of their official personnel.

President Kennedy has as yet announced no detailed plan for having his officials set a moral example for private citizens. But if the new administration carries out its promises to curb crime and to prosecute criminals at all levels from juvenile delinquents to big business and big labor racketeers, its own standards will have to be high, and enforced with vigor.

There Are Plans Under Consideration now for an anticrime drive, the like of which the country has never seen. All the specialized law enforcement agencies would be coordinated.

The details aren't worked out yet. But Federal Bureau of Investigation, Immigration Service and Border Patrol in the Department of Justice; Secret Service, Bureau of Narcotics and Customs Bureau in Treasury; Postal Inspectors, Food and Drug Inspectors and other government agencies with police powers will be expected to co-operate to a degree they have not always exercised in the past.

This may be part of a national cleanup movement.

What neither the crooked capitalists, racketeering union leaders, corrupt government officials nor the ordinary run-of-the-street hoodlums and petty chiselers realize is that they are playing right into the hands of the Communists.

In their struggle for world domination, the Red propagandists have long claimed that the capitalist system is decadent, corrupt and the exploiter of the common people.

This was what Judge Ganey had in mind when he said that one issue at stake in the trial of the electric goods manufacturers was the example this country was offering to the uncommitted nations as an alternative to a planned economy.

When President Kennedy Calls for a higher morality in private affairs, to set a better example for morality in private affairs, he is not just making a plea for righteousness for its own sake.

It is part of the larger struggle for men's minds, to convince the world that the free, democratic society does offer the better way of live.

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy faces a two-headed test of his leadership: Action and imagination.

Action in his case, at home and abroad, means more than proposals. He's made a lot already. It means a follow-through to make them a reality.

He can offer Congress programs but unless he pressures it to do something about them he'll wind up empty-handed.

True, he started under a handicap: By just squeaking through in the 1960 election he can't claim overwhelming endorsement for what he stood for.

What he stands for, according to the proposals made so far, is a little more liberal than conservative, but only mildly so.

But Congress, even though his Democrats outnumber the Republicans 65 to 35 in the Senate and 262 to 175 in the House, is dominantly conservative.

The result: In his first test with Congress, just as in the election, he barely managed to win. This was his fight on the House Rules Committee.

For year its conservative Republican and Southern Democratic members, by teaming up, could block liberal legislation from going to the House for a vote.

Kennedy sought to get the House to add a few more members to the committee to overcome the conservative coalition.

He and his aides pressured House members to go along with him. In the final count he won by only five votes out of 429 cast.

It's good evidence he will have to fight every foot of the way to get what he wants from Congress.

Both action and imagination will be needed in foreign affairs. He himself has expressed urgency in this field.

For example: His statement that "the news will be worse before it gets better." He also said in the campaign: "Peace requires more than talk."

Kennedy has taken over in a peculiar, almost frozen, period of American history. American foreign policy has been fixed and frozen for years.

President Truman laid it down: Foreign aid and military alliances around the world to keep communism back. President Eisenhower followed this down the line.

He made no basic change in Truman's policy. Perhaps Kennedy won't, or won't be able to, either.

Reduced to its simple elements the Truman-Eisenhower policy has been a holding operation. But it hasn't held.

The Communists are pushing in Asia. The Russians have leapfrogged over American defenses and alliances to do their work in Africa.

Most daring of all the Communists have penetrated the Western Hemisphere: In Cuba and other parts of Latin America. There's no sign of an end to it.

The Truman-Eisenhower holding policy can be made flexible. But it has no sense of movement.

Kennedy's test will come in continuing to hold the line against communism while devising means to avoid war and perhaps even outscore communism.

This will require first class imagination. Kennedy is conscious of this. And probably here is the best evidence up to now that he is conscious of the test:

His unwillingness to say much about foreign policy, disarmament, or relations with Russia until he and his aides can study their problems.

In the end he may find new approaches through imagination. It will still come to nothing without follow-through action to win support at home and among allies.

All that he's said and done so far is the barest kind of preliminary to what he must do if he is to provide the kind of leadership he talked of giving.

Retired Teachers' Talents Are Valuable to Others

BY MARIE DAERR

You thousands of retired schoolteachers, what use are you making now of your experience and training?

And you who are soon to join the ranks of pensioners, what plans have you for filling the leisure hours that will be thrust upon you?

Her volunteer job for retirement years is teaching English to aliens whose goal is American citizenship.

She does this in a big city-operated hospital whose patients include foreign-born people who want to learn how to speak and write our language. Also, they want to become Americans.

This goal is most important to Mrs. Barnes.

"If they don't want to become citizens, I can't get too interested in them," Mrs. Barnes said.

Among Mrs. Barnes' students is a Russian-born woman who had university education abroad.

"This woman's gratitude is touching," Mrs. Barnes said. "At holiday time, she gave me a handkerchief with the words, 'Dear Teacher,' embroidered on it."

Another of Mrs. Barnes' students is a Puerto Rican, a laborer who had little formal education but who is eager to learn English.

"I couldn't speak a word of Spanish when we started, but I'm already changing that situation," Mrs. Barnes said. "I borrowed a Spanish grammar from the public library.

"I also use language records and flash cards as teaching tools. The cards are excellent, because they give a word, the first letter of the word in large print and a picture that helps on the meaning of the word."

Mrs. Barnes is delighted with the Puerto Rican's diligence so far as homewark is concerned.

"He is really eager to learn which is a great satisfaction to a teacher," Mrs. Barnes said.

Still another Barnes student is a professor from the Ukraine who spoke five languages but not English.

Another request for help in English came from a foreign-born doctor who is doing research in pathology at the hospital.

Sometimes Mrs. Barnes finds herself teaching an American-born patient.

"Not all our people had a chance for much schooling," Mrs. Barnes said. "Some were brought up in remote rural areas."

Teaching isn't Mrs. Barnes' only volunteer task. She fills in on many jobs: weighing patients, answering phones, making out requisitions, keeping records. Her latest project is helping time pass for free-clinic patients who sometimes wait hours to be seen by doctors. She teaches them sewing or knitting or reads to them.

"I started volunteering here 15 years ago, telling stories to the youngsters," Mrs. Barnes said. "I'm grateful I'm still useful."

Q—I am a 67-year-old widow. How much money can I earn in 1961 without losing benefits from social security?—Mrs. G.B.

A—You may earn $1,200 or less without losing benefits. If you earn more than $1,200, $1 of your benefits will be withheld for each $2 of your earnings above $1,200 and up to $1,500. For every $1 of earnings above $1,500, $1 of benefits will be withheld.

Q—I lost my wife nearly three years ago. Exactly two years and one week after her death I read in the paper that I was entitled to a death benefit. At the social security office they told me that if I had come one week earlier I could have had the money. Neither the doctor, the hospital nor the funeral director told me about his benefit. Is it still possible to collect?—R.M.

A—Unfortunately for you, the law states that, to collect this death benefit, the person who pays the funeral expenses must report the death within a two-year period. Your experience shows how vital it is to keep up on what is available to you in the way of social security benefits.

FINDING THE WAY

The Finest Memorial

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Written For NEA

A century ago a war ravished this nation and left a pall of misunderstanding which it has taken the years to erase. In the midst of the carnage, there were many acts of heroism and many men of bravery. There were two whom history remembers as bearing the cloak of greatness.

Said Abraham Lincoln, "Character is like a tree, and reputation is like its shadow. The shadow is what we think of; the tree is the real thing."

Said Robert E. Lee, "Duty is the sublimest word in our language. Do your duty in all things. You cannot do more. You should never do less."

These words stand as evidences of the quality of those men of integrity.

This is the important evidence of a commemoration. Just when we are liable to run off into some kind of escapism because of our own troubles, we are reminded by history that others have walked this way. So history can help us to now praise famous men, and remind us that we stand fullstream in this history.

We live in a time when there are no more demanding adventures than those involved in community and communication. From the tensions in our own neighborhoods to the international difficulties, we are confronted with the need to discover community. That's hard enough to do with individuals.

When it involves nations which have bombs parked in their back yards, then there is a new need to understand history's urgent command that we know who we are, and so recognize our moral duty.

In our personal situations we are liable to congratulate ourselves simply because we haven't said a hurtful thing about each other. Yet when a man knows of the hurts which despoil his neighborhood and does nothing about them, he is guilty of a lack of character and a sense of duty.

We are liable to degrade brotherhood into an annual banquet or a discussion of what someone else ought to do about it. We can hardly remember a nation's civil war without looking deep into our own personal civil wars, recalling the integrity required to match ourselves against the problems.

The problems of community and communication in our own time are too numerous and too complicated for any one individual or single group. Together we can construct the climate which can encourage this bold adventure in living which ought to be our finest memorial to a century-old war.

And over the ramparts of eternity there will be the glad eyes of men such as Lincoln and Lee who rejoice in a country, under God, willing to insure both liberty and justice for all.

Scallops and shrimp are abundant now, ready to make protein-rich Lenten dishes, tempting and easy to prepare. Oysters, favorite of many gourmets, are not in very good supply, however.

Government-inspected fish rectangles, cut from blocks of frozen perch, cod, hake, pollack, (all so-called "ground fish"), come packaged as fillets, steaks, burgers or cutlets. Most of them are breaded and ready for cooking without defrosting. Most fish sticks come from the same blocks.

Filets of sole or flounder, (not headed), both the same fish but called differently according to locality, are in good supply, also. Neither, of course, is the true Dover or Channel sole which comes from the English Channel and is served usually only in expensive restaurants.

To make meatless cooking interesting and satisfying, the Fish and Wildlife Service of the U. S. Department of the Interior offers a test kitchen series of excellent and well-illustrated bulletins on fish and sea food cookery. They include: Basic Fish Cookery (25 cents), How to Cook Salmon (20 cents), How to Cook Ocean Perch (10 cents), How to Cook Shrimp (15 cents), How to Cook Oysters (20 cents). To each envelope, add 3 cups cold water, stir and heat until mixture boils, then simmer for four minutes. Will serve three adequately, four stingily.

Nitrate Slows Health And Growth Of Hogs

University of Illinois tests have shown that nitrate added to swine rations significantly slows gains.

A research assistant in animal science, J. T. Tollett, added 0.61, 1.23, 1.84, 2.4 and 3.17 percent nitrate, as potassium nitrate, to corn—soybean meal rations. A control group received no addition. He found that levels above 1.84 percent significantly depressed gains.

Further tests confirmed that the nitrate, not he potassium, caused the slower gains.

In another test, Tollett added varying levels of nitrate and vitamin A to a milo diet fed to hogs. In all cases, regradless of the vitamin A level, the rate and efficiency of gain were significantly slower. Dietary nitrate also increased the methemoglobin level in the blood, and this response was not affected by vitamin A supplementation.

In other words, the vitamin A did not prevent the toxic effects of nitrate in swine.

Tollett explained that nitrate toxicity and vitamin A deficiencies are becoming more serious in cattle and sheep. The vitamin A deficiencies occur even though the animals receive an adequate amount of the vitamin or carotene, the forerunner of vitamin A found in forages.

There is increasing evidence that these two problems, nitrate toxicity and vitamin A deficiencies, are linked together. If so, it's possible that they are increasing because of increased levels of nitrogen fertilizer being applied to crops.

Plants absorb the nitrate; then livestock absorb the nitrate from forages. The nitrate converts to nitrite in the animal's body. Nitrite prohibits the blood from transporting oxygen — consequently the animal suffocates.

Only one or two cases of nitrate poisoning have been reported in swine so far.

Soil Conservation District Reelects Directors

The accomplishments of the board of the Morgan County Soil Conservation district were applauded at the annual meeting held at Salem Lutheran church Monday evening, and the two retiring directors, Gloyd Leavell and Irl Henderson, were reelected by unanimous vote.

Ronnie Leavell of the Lynnville area and Danny Crow of Franklin represented Morgan County at the junior forestry camp held last August at West Frankfort. Both gave lively accounts of what they did and learned during the week, and Leavell showed his 118 interested auditors how a scaler's rule is used to determine the amount of lumber in a standing tree.

The annual award for the best 4-H exhibit on soil conservation at the county fair was made to Ronnie Tomhave of the North Side Ag club.

Farm Advisor George Trull congratulated the board for its fine program of work during 1960 and Joe Graham, local conservationist, spoke briefly on some of the aims of the immediate future.

The principal speaker was R. D. Walker of Albion, extension conservationist. He used as his subject, "Conservation Is People."

Asserting that conservation is the wise use of resources to insure the needs of the people, both now and in the future, he declared, "Farmers alone can't do it all, it's a national project as much as defense. All are affected, owners, tenants, neighbors, governmental units, taxpayers—everybody and his descendants."

Practices to conserve the land and the water must be both economical and practical, with stress on using each parcel of land to the nilt of its capabilities, Walker emphasized.

"Soil and water conservation techniques have been proved long ago," he said. "They are available to all and if used correctly and in time they will do the job."

Swine Tour Wednesday

All persons interested in pork production are invited to join a Morgan County tour of two installations near Murrayville Wednesday.

The first stop will be at the Jackson Feed Mill Proving Station located four miles east and a half mile north of Murrayville at 12:30 p.m. Here the visitors will see a confined feeding on concrete installation with a potential of 4,000 head of finished hogs per year.

The insulated, radiant-heated farrowing house shown above will handle 48 sows in individual farrowing crates every 33 days.

The second stop will be at the Alan Heaton farm a mile east and a mile and a half south of Murrayville. Here 500-600 hogs are raised annually, with farrowings in a central house and feeding in pasture lots.

Two U.I. specialists, Don Jedele and Harry Russell, will accompany the tour and will answer questions during a discussion and summary meeting at the Murrayville Legion Hall at 2:45 p.m. Doughnuts and coffee will be served.

U. I. Sets Big Plans For Farm And Home Festival April 6-8

URBANA—Preparations are swinging into high gear as the University of Illinois College of Agriculture readies itself for another Farm and Home Festival.

The event annually attracts nearly 15,000 farm and city people from all parts of Illinois and from adjoining states.

Theme of this year's Festival is "Foundations for the Future." The giant show, set for April 6, 7 and 8, will revolve around four major exhibit areas designed to show how basic research today may open up new horizons for living in the future.

Much To See

Here are a few examples of the type of research Festival visitors will see:

Dairy scientists are building their exhibit on the theme, "From Roughage to Milk." They'll also show how fruit flies, mice and goats are finding themselves in the unlikely position of aiding dairy cow genetic research.

"Flavor" is the theme of the food technology exhibit. The scientists will show how various factors affect food flavors. On hand also will be the U. of I. national champion dairy products judging team.

U. of I. entomologists are preparing glass cases to house live termites and ants to show how these insects live. Practical aspect of the exhibit is to show the best methods for controlling these pests.

Distaff Interests

Slated to meet the "Home" section needs of the Festival are a number of exhibits designed for the modern homemaker.

For example:

Weaving, ceramics and jewelry designed by professional home economists will be on display.

The specially built wheelchair kitchen will show recommended dimension arrangements and storage ideas adapted for wheelchair use.

Foods researchers will display wise use of food freezers, a variety of packaging materials and publications about food freezing.

Though most exhibits in the home section are concerned with the new and modern, the highlight of the section quite possibly may be two rooms set to display articles from a historic costume collection.

Wedding Gowns

The display will include seven wedding gowns dating from 1830 to 1961. The gowns will be on figures and surrounded by palms to give a "wedding" atmosphere. Also on display will be historic fans, antique lace handkerchiefs and collars.

Saturday, April 8, is the annual Ag Student Guest Day and Home Economics Hospitality Day. High school students will have an excellent opportunity to see the campus, hear about career opportunities and learn how students live while going to college.

The Festival also includes the Town and Country Art Show, featuring the best works selected from local shows throughout the state.

Artists Invited To Show Work

Amateur artists of Morgan County are invited to enter their paintings, drawings, ceramic pieces and other works of art in the 1961 Town and Country Art Show sponsored by the Illinois Extension Service.

The regional show will be held in the Farm Bureau auditorium in Springfield on Monday, March 6. Entries from Morgan, Menard, Cass, Logan, Macoupin, Montgomery, Christian and Macon Counties will be judged, and the best will be sent to the state show to be held in Urbana in connection with the Farm and Home Festival April 7-8.

Rules of the Springfield show and entry blanks may be secured from Miss Elaine Miller, 220 W. State st., or at the Extension office in the Farm Bureau building.

SOYBEAN SUPPLIES DOWN; CORN UP

SOYBEANS. We have never had a real surplus of soybeans. Practically all stocks have been used up each year except in 1958-59. At the end of that year, the carry-over was 62 million bushels, but that was only 11 per cent of the crop. It was reduced to only 23 million bushels on October 1, 1960.

The quarterly report on supplies and use showed some new facts about the soybean situation. It showed that the market situation is tighter than it was a year ago, but it provided no guarantee of further price increases — or even of maintaining recent price levels.

Supplies of beans are smaller now and we are using and exporting them faster than we did last year. During the October-December quarter crushings for oil and meal took 110 million bushels, 5 per cent more than the year before. Exports took 56 million bushels, up 10 per cent.

Stocks of soybeans on hand Jan. 1 were estimated at 424 million bushels, or 6 per cent less than a year ago. Stocks on farms were listed at 172 million bushels, down 12 per cent. Stocks at processing plants totaled 111 million bushels, up 6 per cent. Stocks in elevators and warehouses were 141 million bushels, down 6 per cent. The 424 million bushels on hand Jan. 1 is 17 million more than was used for seed, crushed and exported from Jan. 1 to Oct. 1 last year.

The Commodity Credit Corporation, which owned 13 million bushels on Jan. 1 last year, has sold practically all of its stocks. The liquidation of CCC stocks is reflected in smaller supplies reported this year in elevators and warehouses.

At recent prices, soybeans were 44 cents a bushel higher than they were last year, but the value of the oil and meal from a bushel of beans was up only 35 cents.

CORN. Total stocks of corn on hand Jan. 1 were estimated at 4,700 million bushels, up 7 per cent from the year before. Most of this increase was in CCC cans and in elevators and warehouses. Stocks in CCC facilities were listed at 688 million, up 20 per cent from the same time last year. Elevator and warehouse stocks were 952 million bushels, up 25 per cent. Farm stocks were estimated at 3,060 million bushels, up only 1 per cent.

Disappearance of corn in the October - December quarter was calculated at 1,038 million bushels, or 1 per cent less than the year before. The smaller use so far this year reflects reduced feeding to hogs. About 10 per cent fewer hogs were fed in this quarter in 1960 than last year. This reduction more than offset a slight increase in cattle feeding.

Recent prices for corn were about equal to the "effective" price support rate. The "effective" support rate is the actual rate less costs. There is now little advantage in placing corn under price support unless the market price increases considerably.

Talk in Washington about raising price supports for the next corn crop has a bullish influence on prices for the current crop. It will also tend to reduce the use of corn—because farmers will be slower to expand livestock production when they expect the price of corn to go up.

Acres: They're Different!

One acre of Morgan County land is the same size as any other acre. But, for the most part, similarity ends there.

The first settlers found many types of soil here, most of it mighty fine. Man's use of the land has changed the pattern more, so now we have many variations within the same types. Some of it is better than the Europeans found it; most of it hasn't fared so well.

Charles Gholson, agronimist in charge of the soil experiment fields of western Illinois, addressed an interested audience of 60 Morgan County farmers Wednesday afternoon at Farm Bureau hall. This is a king-sized crowd for an extension agronomy meeting, which shows the ever-increasing interest in soil fertility and maintenance as farmers switch to intensive crop rotations.

Gholson is shown above. Back of him is a colored map of the soil types of Morgan County—one of the visual aids he used to illustrate his discussion.

It Can Be Done

Some of the points Gholson stressed were:

Good Morgan County land can grow continuous corn, every year, with good results. But it is tricky business, and requires keen management.

A soil test is the very best investment any land owner can make.

The first element required to build up fertility is limestone. Sour soils won't produce good yields no matter what combinations of fertilizer are applied.

A good fertilizer dealer is a farmer's best friend. He can in nearly every case develop a program that will do the job at substantial savings to the farmer.

Rock phosphate is still the cheapest way to add this element to the soil. But experiment records show the addition of soluble phosphates to wheat stands pays off, every time.

Just A Myth

The statement that rock phosphate doesn't "break down" and become effective unless there's a legume in the rotation is pure myth. The opposite applies, rock alone gives maximum yields at lowest cost in corn-soybean rotations. (This would not be so in cases where the pH factor is 7 or above, Gholson said. But he declared, "There's no such land in Morgan County.")

Don't worry about the grind of agricultural limestone. Just put it on according to test.

Recommendations for limestone applications have been increased in recent years. This is because farmers are plowing deeper.

Out of Date.

The Illinois system of fertility maintenance, which includes a legume in the rotation, may be "horse and buggy," but it consistently produces higher average yields than neighboring fields.

Farm Adviser George Trull spoke on the soil types of the county, with emphasis on 14 types in four general categories:

Upland Prairie—Illiopolis, Ipava, Bolivia.

Timber—Clary, Sylvan Bold, Clinton, Bogota.

Prairie-Timber Transition: Clarksdale, Sicily.

Bottom—Arenzville Silt, Sawmill, Baucoup, Worthem, Littleton.

Twirl, Spark And Fun

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

When morning had lost its shadows, Twirl crept up from his warm hollow to a knothole doorway.

"I must look for breakfast food," he decided. "Maybe acorns."

But on the ground sat inquisitive Spark. "He'll chase me if I go down," the squirrel knew so he climbed upward to spring about his tree ladders, then leaped to a nearby maple. There in a crotch stood an ear of corn.

"What a tasty dish," he chattered and nibbled eagerly. But the cob wobbled and fell to the ground where Spark nosed.

"Anyway he can't eat it," Twirl knew, "But neither can I, dodging him, and I am hungry." Nor was there any fruit still hanging on the pear tree where once he had lunched, gnawing out seeds and dropping the broken fruit to the ground.

He took a flying jump to a magnolia but why look there for blue jays had eaten all those dangling red seeds weeks ago, so he paused a moment until Spark's back was turned to bound across the lawn and scamper up a fence post. Now only a trifling jump led to a friendly persimmon tree hung with brown frost bitten balls.

"A trifle dry," he found but there was the bird bath, full of water, and there too, was Spark.

"Have you ever thought of climbing a tree? he teased the waiting dog, "You need only to let your claws grow long and sharp."

Spark sat down to wait, "I do not have to get my own breakfast, they feed me in the house."

"Once I lived in that house too," Twirl confided. "But I like this better; housecat Fun would follow me with his eyes from window ledge to window ledge; I did not like to see his long whiskers twitch either."

Let's Go Birding—

Snow Ice-Cream And Cardinals

By Emma Mae Leonhard

If you were asked what dish of ice-cream you have most enjoyed so far in your life time, what would be your answer? In many cases, we shall guess, it would be snow ice-cream: the ice-cream you made for yourself from the new-fallen snow, milk, and maybe sugar and a little vanilla, if you were particular.

Your mother probably allowed you this delicacy only when the snow was virgin. What fun it was to stir the ingredients together and to eat the delicacy like an innocent epicure! You didn't want hot fudge or wafers to dress it up; you ate only the ambrosial snow ice-cream and dreamed of another snow that would bring more dainties.

But you aren't the only ones who can appreciate snow ice-cream. Birds have enjoyed it too.

The morning after the famous Groundhog's Day, I saw at least fourteen Cardinals banqueting with delight. Their dining-room was the snow-packed garden. Snow draped all hemlock and spruce branches, all leafless shrubs and trees; in fact it draped everything except the ruby-red fruits of the Highbush Cranberry. The clusters of these berries beaded the snow blanket in modernistic designs, beautiful to even the classical artist.

Here and there perched the Cardinals, eating their dessert of snow ice-cream. At the bird feeders they had already banqueted on Sunflower seeds and cracked corn. Who knows? Maybe some of them were eating their dessert first.

In two ways these Cardinals were more practical than mortals. They didn't have to stir the ingredients together to make their ice-cream; just plain snow was good enough for them. And they used the snow for their drink; for them it served as water, milk, coffee, or anything else that mortals drink.

This is the way that birds drink when the water is all ice. It is also in the snow that the birds bathe. Yes, snow is good for something even if snow shovelers on a snowy morning may grumble. And this scene of white snow, jewel-like cranberries, and crimson Cardinals exceeded all museum paintings.

Story About Lincoln

By Ann Symons

Editor's note: The following story and its illustrations were sent in by Junior page reader, Ann Symons.

Abraham Lincoln

Abraham Lincoln was born 1809, died 1865.

He was president from 1861 to 1865. The books he read were the Bible, Robinson Crusoe, and many more.

He had to split one thousand rails for a neighbor just to get himself a pair of jeans. That was a lot of work just for a pair of jeans but it took many yards of cloth to cover his legs.

He was a very strong man. He could out run and out fight every boy he knew.

He had a sister named Sally. He lived in a very poor house with only one room and only one window.

True Story—

Long-Ago School Girl

By Mary Pence Claywell

Prt 19: "Mad" Dog?

There were many "phantom" fears in those days also . . . just as there are today . . . yet sometimes one of these even became real.

For instance, children were very much afraid of meeting a rabid (mad) dog . . . and it did happen in Hannah's district, although none of the children at old Maple School met it face to face. Of course then, as now, there were some people who called any tired, lost dog "mad."

The children avoided any strange dog . . . wise, even if it was not mad. Hannah, later on during her high school days, saw a section gang stone a "rabid dog." She climbed the railroad fence, jerked off her shoes and stockings and waded across the creek to a safer path beyond, and this she did!

"God bless you, old creek," whispehed Hannah." They say mad dogs won't cross water!" (Now we know this old saying is not true for a rabid dog is sick and may want a drink.)

Dear children of today . . . these dangers do not threaten you now . . . but there are others. So let's all be careful every minute of the day; and may the Good Lord bless you every one as you strive to make safety one of your daily goals!

As I See It
by E. W. BROWN

With all the talk about Mrs. Jackie Kennedy's clothes . . . whether it's some kind of new look and whether she's setting a new style . . . folks seem to have forgotten that, after all, Clothes Make the Man, and that Mr. Kennedy wears clothes, too. Finally, the new President's tailor is speaking up about the First Man's wardrobe. According to him, Mr. Kennedy's tastes run to conservative suits befitting his position, without any tendency toward beatnik or Ivy League. He's not the gray flannel type, either, preferring dark shades like blue or charcoal. He likes "easy" clothes, being a fast-moving man who doesn't like to be bound. His suits, says the tailor, need no shoulder padding, since the President has very square and high shoulders of his own. Now the news is out. And from now on, the "Kennedy Look" could mean a new style in clothes for ladies or men, depending on whether you mean Jackie . . . or Jack.

A Kansas newspaper ran this ad: "We will oil your sewing machine and adjust the tension in your home for only $1." Specialists in motion and emotion? Job Seekers In Dallas Take Lie Detector Tests

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The rubber hose is stretched across your chest. Then the electrode is placed in your hand. The gray cloth of the blood-pressure machine is wrapped around your arm.

In a quiet, slow voice the man asks you questions.

"Is your name Jack Collins?

"Are you 38 years old?

"Have you ever stolen from your employer?

"Do you have a police record?"

All the time the questions are asked, and all the time you think, and answer, three metal arms make small zig zag lines on an endless roll of paper.

You're taking a lie detector test. The test is not to determine whether you go to jail. It will help determine if you get the job you seek.

Giving lie detector tests to job applicants is a growing national trend. In Dallas this year about 20,000 persons will be tested by Truth Verification, Inc., the largest company of its kind in the country, says its president, Lee Keener.

Truth Verification's services are also used by employers trying to determine who stole the six radios from the stockroom, who took $36 from the cash register, who took the bottle of whisky frm Room 432 of the hotel.

And it is used, says Keener, by the chambermaid who wants to prove she did not take the whisky, the sales clerk who says he didn't take the money, and the three shipping room clerks who claim the radios were gone when they came to work Monday morning.

A company using Keener's services sends all job applicants to Truth Verification after they have filled out their employment applications.

Not all agree to the tests, however.

Claudine Johnson, manager of an employment agency, says three out of four persons asked to take the tests object. Two of the three take them, nevertheless.

Other employment agency managers say they have had no complaints about the tests.

Keener says, "About 2 per cent of the applicants fail to show up for the test. We have checked on these 2 per cent, and we find that 95 per cent of them have some kind of background problem that would have prevented them from getting the job."

What about a man with a past prison record who wants to go straight? What about the persons with a history of excessive drinking? Don't the tests prevent such persons from ever getting a job?

Keener says just the opposite is true.

"Most employers are prone to give everybody a chance if they feel they are not taking too much of a risk. If a man with a past criminal record says he wants to go straight—and the lie detector test shows he's telling the truth—the employer may hire him because we have shown the man has honest intentions.

"If a man with a drinking problem says he hasn't had a drop in eight months—and the machine proves he's telling the truth—he stands an excellent chance of being hired," says Keener.

One of the other uses of the lie detector test—or the truth verification test, as Keener prefers to call it—is to determine why a person wants a particular job.

"It costs a long distance trucking company hundreds of dollars to train a truck driver," Keener says, "and before a company starts a man on a training program, it wants to know if the man intends to remain with the company or try to sell his newly acquired skills to some other firm. The test will show what the man's intentions are."

TRUMP LEAD IS BEST PLAY

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written For Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It is hard to say whether the type double made by East is lead directing or merely a common sense call for a trump opening.

In any event if your partner doubles a low contract of this sort and you are to lead, it is reasonable to assume that he can stand a trump opening and equally reasonable to assume that a trump opening will cut down the dummy's and even the declarer's ruffing power.

East and West can make three no-trump, but the trump lead against two spades, doubled works out better. East's eight of trumps will knock out South's king. Later on if the defenders keep on their toes, East will get a chance to lead trumps twice more and South will be held to five tricks.

If West makes the tempting opening of the king of clubs, South's best play is to take his ace right away and play a low heart. There are all sorts of variations in the defense possible from then on, but assuming South makes no mistake the best East and West will be able to do is to collect the penalty for a one trick set which is not much solace for the loss of a no-trump game.

With The Girl Scouts

Big news this week in Girl Scouting in Illinois Prairie Council was the creation of a Senior Planning Board. Now that we have three Senior troops in existence and two more about to get registered, a Senior Planning Board made up of representatives from each troop is a necessity.

The first meeting of this new group was held Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Scout office with representatives from three troops present. This group is under the jurisdiction of the program committee of the Board of Directors. Mrs. William Gross, chairman of that committee, will be one of the advisors of the group; another advisor will be Miss Carol Van Tassel of MacMurray College, who has had experience working with Senior Planning Boards in other Councils.

The Senior Planning Board will meet again on Wednesday, Feb. 22, at the Scout Office from 5 to 7 p.m. with a sack supper being served to participants.

Two program suggestions were presented to the group for consideration at the next meeting: an International Tea to be sponsored by the Senior troops for persons who are not native to this country and a Senior Conference for Senior Scouts in this region which the local Senior troops will sponsor in early fall. Senior planning was explained to the group also.

It is to be hoped that all troops will send representatives to the Feb. 22nd meeting, including the Senior troop in Winchester. Officers will be elected then and tentative by laws will be discussed.

Members of the Public Relations committee held an organization meeting Monday morning at the Scout office with the new chairman, Mrs. Elmer Lukeman presiding. Present were new members Mrs. Alden Pires and Mrs. Gordon Brown and Mrs. Richard Bond who served on the committee last year. Several immediate projects were discussed, particularly Girl Scout week publicity and career women to be interviewed that week. Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Pires were given the task of finding exhibit windows for troops to use during Girl Scout Week. The year's work of the Public Relations committee was explained by Mrs. Hartman. A definite time of meeting was set up for the first Tuesday of each month at 9:30 a.m. at the Scout office. The next session will be on March 7.

Directors Meet

The Board of Directors of Illinois Prairie Council held a regular session on Wednesday morning at the Scout Office with the new president, Mrs. Howard Choate, presiding. New officers were introduced including Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, new first vice president; Mrs. William Zellman, new recording secretary; Mrs. Leroy Martin, new training chairman; Mrs. Elmer Lukeman, new public relations chairman. Reports were made by the various chairmen and Mrs. Choate urged that all annual reports be in the Scout office by February 20th.

Program committee members met Friday noon at Hamilton's cafe for a regular session with Mrs. William Gross presiding. Plans for the Heritage Hike for leaders were discussed. The hike will be held Feb. 22 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with a sack lunch to be served at the home of the president of Illinois College, Barnes House, at 310 Lockwood. A film, "State Parks and Memorials," will be shown at the conclusion of the hike at Strawn Art Home. A report from the Senior Planning Board was heard and discussed regarding the Senior Conference and the International Tea.

The Executive Director and the first vice president of the Council visited the Cass County Neighborhood meeting in Virginia on Thursday, Feb. 9. One person attended; she was given help and ideas were exchanged.

Morgan Meeting

Attention, Morgan County leaders—The Morgan County Neighborhood meeting will be held on the fourth Thursday, Feb. 23, instead of the third Thursday as previously announced. This meeting will be held at 9:30 a.m. in the Scout office with a continuation of the international friendship theme as promised. Mrs. Marguerite Hug of IBGS school will be the guest speaker and will tell about "Our Chalet." This will be an unusual opportunity for Morgan County leaders and a good attendance is urged.

Two neighborhood meetings will be held next week: Greene County will meet at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 14, in White Hall and Scott county will meet in Bluffs at 1:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 15.

An extra meeting of the Camp committee will be held this week Wednesday at 9:45 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Mangan, 1249 West State street. Because of the great amount of work yet to be done by the group, this special session has been called.

Troop News

Intermediate Troop No. 20, Miss Lee Welkley leader, camped overnight Friday at the MacMurray P.E. cabin on Lake Mauvaisterre. Accompanying the group were Miss Carol Olson, assistant leader, and Miss Jeanette Coward, both of MacMurray College. The girls cooked their own meals and worked on several badge requirements.

Senior Scouts of Mrs. Robert Gullion's troop held their third meeting this past week at the home of the leader. They will be officially registered next week. One requirement for becoming a Senior Scout is to learn all about the Scout Council of which she is a part. Mrs. Hartman was present as guest speaker and using a flannel board gave a program used for basic training of leaders in which the Council is explained. Mrs. Hartman also gave some history of the local Council. Ten members now attend regularly and a cordial welcome is extended to any other high school girl who would be interested in joining the troop. They are working on Senior requirements and will be given pins at an early date.

The filmstrip "Our Cabana" was shown. Three members of the group have indicated they would like to visit this world center in Mexico in June, 1962, when a group from this Council will be making the trip.

A well-conducted business meeting followed the program with a report from the Senior Planning board being heard. Refreshments in keeping with the Valentine season were enjoyed. This troop meets every other Wednesday from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Gullion home, 521 East College avenue.

Brownie Troop No. 90 of Washington school, Mrs. Charles E. Moore and Mrs. K. E. Vasconcellos, leaders, made Valentine place mats and took them this week to the Meline Nursing home. This Thursday they had a Valentine party at the troop meeting.

MUSHROOMS GROWN IN MILK—Growing mushrooms inside tanks filled with skim milk and a few other things is a lifesaver for a former milk-processing plant in Lebanon, Mo. Noting that the U.S. annually imports about 900,000 pounds of dried mushrooms at $4 a pound for soups and sauces, the plant officials swung into the mushroom business. Two technicians, left, examine spores started in a bottle into which is fed sterile air, necessary for bacteria-free mushrooms that can be stored without spoiling. Right are the big stainless steel tanks to which the spores are transferred for the maturing process.

Don Bragg Says He's Getting Too Old To Vault

"I feel like an old man," complained the man who has pole vaulted higher than anyone in history before heading for the Philadelphia Inquirer meet Friday. "I have grey hair, the gout, hardening of the arteries and varicose veins.

"Why my doctor says he is surprised my veins haven't popped."

All this is just another way of saying that Bragg has had it. His long-dreamed of 16-foot vault will be made by someone else. His indoor record is 15-9½ made in this same Inquirer games just two years ago.

Bragg probably will call it a career at the end of the current season.

"Do you know," he asked half seriously, "how many times I have landed on my head? Plenty."

A week ago in the Millrose Games in New York, he got just one 15-footer, and was beaten by Henry Wadsworth of the University of Florida. Less than a year ago, he would have been upset at the thought of losing.

"I guess I've lost most of my inspiration," Bragg said. "Before the Olympics (which he won) I really had something to aim for. No more, though, I don't even worry about losing any more. It used to break my heart to get beaten."

PAN-AMERICAN DAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has proclaimed Friday, April 14 as Pan - American Day and the period April 9-15 as Pan-American Week.

The day is the anniversary of the founding of what is now the Organization of American States.

Moyer Steps In As A Sub For Thompson

NEW YORK (AP) — Denny Moyer, a young middleweight of promise, steps in as a sub for Federico Thompson to box Charley Scott, a Philadelphia welterweight, Saturday night at Madison Square Garden.

Although Moyer is ranked No. 6 among the welters by Ring magazine and No. 10 by the National Boxing Association, he actually is a middleweight with designs on the title claimed by both Gene Fullmer and Paul Pender.

The 10-round match, to be carried by ABC network television, will start at 10 p.m. EST. Two judges and a referee will score it by rounds using a supplementary point system in case of even rounds.

Scott was beaten twice by Kid Paret before the Cuban won the welter title. He lost to Ralph Dupas in Australia last fall but then traveled to Manila where he knocked out Rocky Kalingo in one round. He expects to weigh about 149 and will give away about six pounds.

TEAMS REMAIN APART

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — The U.S. Penitentiary prisoners' team won the Terre Haute Industrial Softball League championship, losing only one game and turning in three victories over every team in the league except the penitentiary guards.

Under the institution's rules, the guards and prisoners couldn't play each other.

ANNIVERSARY—Passage of 75 years since the invention of the process which gave the metal to the world is being marked by the aluminum industry at Oberlin, Ohio, this year. The reduction process was discovered by Charles Martin Hall at the age of 22, in a woodshed laboratory behind his family home. Memorial to the young graduate stands in Oberlin College.

IT'S NEW—U.S. soldiers stationed in South Korea near the demilitarized zone have an unusual sport—an A-frame relay. Using the wooden frames with which Korean farmers carry heavy loads, the runner carries a rider who in turn carries a full bucket of water. At the end of the course, another runner shoulders the burden and races back. Teams are judged on speed and how much water they can keep.

Plans also were discussed regarding a bake sale to be sponsored in the spring.

The business meeting was followed by a social hour during which delicious refreshments were served.

Negro Missionary Says Church Must Make Changes In Its Methods In Africa

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

He was a Negro among Negroes. They trusted him. They shared their feelings with him frankly. But he was an American missionary. They were Africans. And he was deeply disturbed by what he learned.

"They wonder if the church has a heart," he said. "They wonder if it really cares about individual rights and dignity."

The Rev. Chester Lee Marcus of Cleveland, Ohio, after spending a year in Africa, is home, convinced that if Christianity is to remain a real influence there it must drastically change its ways.

"It must recast its program and revise its practices," he said.

And this, he added, includes a wide range of changes—turning over full church leadership to indigenous ministers, accepting and incorporating African cultural patterns, and taking part in the African drive for liberty and human welfare.

The churches there, he said, "must recognize the demands of the Christian faith for justice," or be thrust aside in the surge all about them to achieve it.

The Rev. Mr. Marcus, a keenly observant, soft-spoken clergyman, said the missionary - founded churches, under past pressure of colonial governments, have avoided any efforts in behalf of social, economic or political reforms.

"They've stayed on the sidelines," he said, "and they're being left there.

"They've engaged in a kind of religion that consists of Bible reading, hymn singing and praying, with emphasis on the future life, but with little concern for the great issues that the people are concerned about."

With many African states now emerging from white domination and racial oppression into full-fledged independence, he said, the churches must assert their interest in these spheres of life, or be regarded as irrelevant.

"The intellectuals of Africa, those who are shaping its destinies, are the people the church has got to reach," he said. "Many of them were trained in mission schools, but they've outgrown the church emphasis. It has to catch up. It has been too narrow."

The Rev. Mr. Marcus, 43, the graying, bespectacled secretary for racial and cultural relations of the United Church of Christ, has been on leave for the last year for his assignment in Ghana and a half dozen other West African countries."

BRITAIN TO FIRE ROCKET FROM SPACE BACK TO EARTH

WOOMERA, Australia (AP) — Britain is preparing here to fire a rocket from space back to earth in an attempt to beat the heat barrier, scientist Kenneth Smith said Friday.

Smith told newsmen the plan is to test secret insulation material designed to stop burn-up of a space capsule on re-entry into the atmosphere.

A 32-foot Black Knight rocket will be fired 350 miles above Australia. Atop the rocket will be the capsule, and above that the unfired return-trip rocket. A radio signal will fire this at maximum height.

Smith, senior engineer in the Royal Air Force guided weapons establishment, has been in Australia six weeks. He already has a Black Knight on the launching pad—but the nose cone and second rocket are still to be attached. Last Tuesday a Black Knight rocket was sent to a height of 410 miles.

Mrs. Harold Ford was leader of the children's classes in missionary education during the worship hour. Stained glass windows were installed in the new church last week and plans are being made to hold the first service in the new church Easter Sunday.

Race Relations

The theme of the Sunday worship hour in the Greenfield Area Methodist churches will be drawn from the selection of those who were appointed in the early church to be workers with the disciples. Race relations Sunday will be observed in the churches, and in Greenfield, the Martha class will share in the presentation of the morning worship service. Plans are underway for an emphasis during February to secure funds to reduce the anticipated indebtedness on the new building.

Lewis College Nips Highlanders, 84-82 In Last 25 Seconds

LOCKPORT —MacMurray made a gallant last minute bid to catch Lewis College, but a 25 foot jump shot by Bob Thayer with less than five seconds remaining sank the Highlanders hopes and sent them to defeat, 84-82. The Highlanders never saw the lead in the non conference contest but finally tied the game at 82-82 on a hook shot by Gary Little with six seconds remaining. Lewis tossed the ball in bounds and Thayer dribbled the length of the floor and popped in the winning bucket. Hohenberger, Mau, and Krulac had spurred the last period that brought MacMurray from a 10 point deficit with 6:56 to play in the contest.

The Highlanders are now 13-5 for the year while Lewis picked up their fourteenth win against seven losses. Lewis received some very concentarted scoring from Al Latham with 24, Thayer with 21, and John Valaitis with 17 and hit 46% of their field goal attempts. MacMurray hit 40%, but only 35% the first half and received 17 outputs from Chuck Mau and Roy Hahnfeld.

Indians Counting Heavily On Three New Players

By JIMMIE DYKES
Cleveland Indians

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The Indians will be counting heavily on three new men, Johnny Antonelli, Willie Karkland and Ty Cline. If they and some of our young pitchers come through the way we expect, Cleveland fans will have plenty to cheer about.

Antonelli and Kirkland, you know about. We got them from the Giants for Harvey Kuenn. They tell me that Antonelli's arm is in good shape. If he can manage close to 15 victories he'll be a mighty valuable addition. Kirkland can hit with power and gives us a strong arm in the outfield.

Cline could be one of the most exciting players to come up from the minors in a long time. He's an outfielder who can run like a deer. He was with Mobile of the Southern Association last season.

I am anxious to get to spring training to see how our pitching is going to shape up. If Gary Bell can pick up where he left off in 1959 and early 1960 that will solve one problem. Jim Perry, Barry Latman, Jim Grant and Bobby Locke are our other strong right-handers.

Right-hander Dick Stigman and Frank Funk, a lefty, can develop into a good bullpen relief team. Stigman was brilliant at times last year.

Now that Woodie Held has completely recovered from a broken finger we'll have a fine double play combination with him and Johnny Temple.

Vic Power is set at first base and John Romano behind the plate. Romano showed considerable improvement in the last half of 1960 and is capable of giving us some home run power.

On paper, at least, this looks like the best club I've ever taken to spring training.

CUBS COMPLETE PITCHING STAFF

CHICAGO (AP)— The Chicago Cubs' eight-man coaching staff presumably has been completed with the signing of Bobby Adams.

This was revealed in the "Commissioner's Bulletin," the official publication from the office of Commissioner Ford Frick, which stated Adams was signed as a coach as of Dec. 30, 1960.

The Cubs have not as yet made the announcement, probably because a successor to Adams as secretary of the Professional Ball Players Association has not been named.

Adams, a former major leaguer, completes the Cub coaching staff which President P. K. Wrigley says will operate without the naming of a field manager.

Other members of the staff are Rip Collins, Charlie Grimm, El Tappe, Harry Craft, Vedie Hemsl, Goldie Holt and Verlon Walker.

Rockets Annex 18th Victory In 63-53 Win Over Auburn

Coach Bob Winstead's Routt Rockets won their eighteenth contest of the season, and ran a home-court winning streak to 25 in a row as they closed out another year in the Our Saviour's gymnasium by downing the lifeless Auburn Trojans, 63-53, in a non conference contest. The Rockets have streaked through two seasons in a row without being defeated on their regular home court and last lost a game in the East State arena to Roodhouse in December of 1958.

Fred Curtis, one of the finest athletes to wear the Rocket uniform, teamed with Ed Carroll, a fine hoopster in his own right to lead the Routt quintet past the cold shooting Auburn Trojans. Curtis began slowly but picked up momentum in the second half, while Carroll carried the Rocket load throughout the first 16 minutes of action.

Auburn opened the game with a full court press, but it didn't phase Routt in the least. With the fine ball handling of Sullivan and Curtis, the Rockets slowly picked the press apart. Carroll scored the first two buckets for the host and they were never headed but neither team was very impressive in the first period. Routt went out in front 5-2 in a minute and twenty seconds of action, and then both squads hit a cold streak. The lack of scoring was due mainly to some sloppy passes, and blown shots, but Routt went 3:40 without a point and the Trojans went 4:25. Curtis finally broke the ice with a charity toss, and Auburn's Lard popped in a free throw with 2:30 to go in the quarter for the Trojans' third point. "Flip" Carroll did a yeomen's job in the first frame as he collected nine of Routt's fourteen points and Curtis got the other five.

The second period was more Routt as the Trojans made only one bid to get back in the ball game, and this was more of an individual effort than a team splurge. Bob Taylor stuffed in 11 of his final 15 points and pushed Auburn to within seven points twice, but key baskets by Sullivan and Curtis kept the Rockets in the lead. Taylor hit with only seconds remaining in the half to make the margin 10, 30-20.

The Rockets sank 13 of 31 attempts for a creditable 42%, while Auburn could connect on only 9 of 32 for a mediocre 28%, including a 2 for 12 first period.

Carroll got 15 points in the first half and was a tower of strength under the boards. Curtis took the reins right out of his hands to open the third period and got 10 in the eight minute stanza and 16 in the half. The Rockets maintained anywhere from a 10-15 point lead throughout the whole second half and the final ten point margin was as close as the Trojans could get. Don Bartolazzi, a highly rated ball player, was a little less than impressive and was fortunate to get 10 points as the Rocket 1-3-1 defense closed the door in Auburn's face.

Carroll and Curtis, fittingly, tied for high honors to close out their high school playing in the Our Saviour's gym, with 23 points each, and Taylor led the losers with 15. The two clubs finished with identical 36% shooting averages. Routt's coming on 25 of 69 and the Trojans hitting on 21 of 58.

The Rockets do have one home game left in the season, but it is to be played in the JHS bowl.

MOORE OUTPOINTS NOBILE

ROME (AP)— World Featherweight Champion Davey Moore of Springfield, Ohio, easily outpointed Italian Champion Raimondo Nobile Friday in a 10-round, non-title fight. It was the Italian's first loss in 25 pro bouts.

A capacity crowd of 15,000 in Rome's Sports Palace cheered the 129½-pound American Negro as his hand was raised in victory. Nobile weighed 129.

NEW SPARRING PARTNER

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ingemar Johansson worked out Friday with a new sparring partner—Pekka Kokkonen, Europe's leading light heavyweight.

Johansson had asked for Kokkonen because he said the Finn's style was similar to that of Heavyweight Champion Floyd Patterson. Earlier reports indicated Kokkonen was having difficulty getting permission to make the trip because of his political views.

13 FOR YANKEES

NEW YORK (AP)— During the 30 years that baseball writers have voted for the American League's most valuable player, the prize has been won 13 times by a member of the Yankees.

Yogi Berra and Joe DiMaggio are the only three-time winners for New York. Jimmie Foxx also won the award three times. Detroit players have taken the prize six times.

WHAT EVER HAPPENED TO BABY JANE

By Henry Farrell

Copyright © 1960 by Henry Farrell Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

THE STORY: Edna Stitt, a cleaning woman who works for Blanche and Jane Hudson, senses something is wrong between the two sisters. Jane, a former child star, is filled with jealous hatred toward Blanche, who is crippled as a result of a car accident which was rumored to have been engineered by Jane. On her weekly visit to the Hudson home, Mrs. Stitt tries to see Blanche, but finds the bedroom door locked. Jane is not at home.

• • •

For a moment Mrs. Stitt was held immobile by her own dismay. But then a surge of anger brought her quickly back to life again. Turning stiffly, she looked down the hallway in the direction of Jane's room. The door stood open letting a bright, slanting shaft of sunlight into the end of the hall. Mrs. Stitt started determinedly forward; if the key to Blanche's room was anywhere in the house it would be in there.

She pulled out the drawers swiftly, angrily, one after the other, exposing the separate caches of cheap junk jewelry, artificial flowers, bright handkerchiefs and dimestore cosmetics. Finding nothing that even resembled a key, she shoved them closed again and turned her attention to the writing desk against the adjacent wall.

Having rifled quickly and fruitlessly through the random litter on top of the desk, the magazines and circulars, she opened the center drawer. She ran her hand toward the back of the drawer, found something there with her fingers and pulled it forward. It was an ordinary writing tablet with a brown cover. She was just about to thrust it back into the drawer in a gesture of disgust when something, scraps of paper, fell from between the pages and fluttered to the floor. Quickly she stooped down and picked them up.

She stood there for a mohand, feeling a quick stab of apprehension that she didn't quite understand. They were checks, canceled checks; some of the ones that were always kept in the little accounts ledger in Miss Blanche's room.

Mrs. Stitt's gaze shifted to the tablet which she was holding open in readiness to receive the checks back again between its pages. Quickly she brought it closer to the light. Line after line was filled with Miss Blanche's name. "Blanche Hudson . . ." . . . The name had been repeated over and over again the full length of the page.

Mrs. Stitt's eyes moved swiftly back and forth between the tablet and the checks. It was plain as anything, Jane Hudson had been practicing writing out — forging! — Miss Blanche's signature. Her gaze bright now with real fright, Mrs. Stitt looked down the hallway in the direction of the locked door to Miss Blanche's room.

• • •

Mrs. Bates had spent so much time clipping the front hedge now that there just wasn't much left to clip. Earlier, seeing Jane Hudson drive off in the car, she had quickly stationed herself at the hedge where she could watch for her return.

The newspaper clipping was one she had found in last night's paper: Crippled Star Regains Popularity via TV, it said in the heading. And there was a picture of Blanche, too, one of the old ones taken by the studio back in the '30s.

Mrs. Bates looked back along the even line of the hedge with a sigh of defeat; there just wasn't one more lick of anything left to be cut, and she couldn't just stand there, waiting, with nothing to do. She turned away and started back toward the house.

She had just reached the walk when she heard the sound of an advancing car and looked back to see the gray coupe cross the intersection. Casting down her shears, reaching for the pocket of her smock, she hurried eagerly forward.

• • •

"Miss Hudson!" Turning the corner, she made her way rapidly along the garden wall in the direction of the Hudson garage. "Miss Hudson! I have something here for you—for you and your sister!"

Jane Hudson, emerging from the black mouth of the garage, stopped short in surprise, then took a quick step backwards in retreat.

Mrs. Bates, stopping before her, smiled broadly. "I guess I really ought to introduce myself," she said. "I'm Mrs. Bates—Pauline Bates — your new neighbor next door. I guess it's just about time we got acquainted, isn't it?"

A moment passed, uneasily. "Of course I already know who you are. I would naturally though, because of your famous sister." Noticing what appeared to be a sudden coloring in the plump, unpleasant face before her, she hesitated. "I—I know how silly it probably sounds to you and I'm sure you're sick of hearing it, but I really am one of your sister's most ardent fans." Again she faltered, self-consciously aware that she was talking childish nonsense. "You must be very proud of her . . . with her new success . . ."
